Germany hurled a new type of "monster" bomber against England today while King George VI, in a broadcast to his empire, declared that "the armies of invasion are massed across the channel" and "we stand in the front line to champion those liberties and traditions that are our heritage."
Even as he spoke, home-bound London crowds ducked into air-raid shelters as sirens wailed for the capital's third alarm since dawn.
Nazi quarters in Berlin reported "tremendous fires" were raging in the heart of London—so great they were visible from the French coast some 90 miles distant.
One hundred and fifty German warplanes bombed Piccadilly Circus, the Regent Park district and shipping docks along the Thames river, the Germans reported, striking with "full strength."
London said the raiders introduced a huge new 4-engined bomber "so big that Messerschmitt fighters appeared like dots around it."
Official circles in Berlin today dismissed as a "tear jerker"—aimed at getting the United States into the war—the British announcement that a British refugee ship had been torpedoed and sunk 600 miles out on the storm-tossed Atlantic with a loss of 293 lives, including 83 children.

LEGIONNAIRES HEAR ADDRESS BY HEAD G-MAN

Boston, Sept. 23.—(P)—In a coming-of-age message to the 21-year-old American Legion, President Roosevelt said today "we now find abroad serious conflict between those who wish for peace and free government and those who wish to destroy it."
"That test of strength," he added, "has gathered force and, whether we like it or not, today it constitutes a threat against the peace of the entire world. We all hold dear our American way of life with our individual and national freedom. We must protect it against any form of aggression which may endanger it."
He praised the legion for fostering good government, good citizenship and national unity, and added that "these spiritual resources x x x are imperative factors in the strength and peace of our nation."

REGIMENTAL UNITS LEAVE FOR TRAINING

Allentown, Sept. 23.—(P)—The 21st Coast Artillery moved off today for service with the regular army, Pennsylvania's first National Guard unit to be called under the peace-time training plan.
Some batteries passed in review in civic ceremonies while others held informal farewell parties around the armories before the "forward" signal sounded.
The regiment's first stop is Virginia Beach, Va., for several weeks' training. Later it will go to Savannah, Ga.
At Easton, Veterans of the old Eastern city guards who went overseas 22 years ago with the Rainbow Division participated in a farewell for Battery D while Schuykill Haven townspeople turned out with the sun to give Battery F a warm send-off.
Lancaster also held a "going away" party as did the other communities where regimental units are stationed—Pottsville, Bethlehem, Lebanon and Easton.

King George Broadcasts Message of Hope And Encouragement to People of His Empire

London, Sept. 23.—(P)—The British people entered the warily cognizant of the formidable forces against them but confident that their cause was just, King George VI told his empire in a broadcast today.
"The armies of invasion are massed across the channel," the king declared, "the air fleet of the enemy launch their attack, day and night, against our cities. We stand in the front line, to champion those liberties and traditions that are our heritage."
The king instituted a new order for British men and women civilians in all walks of life, "ranking next to the Victoria Cross."
The new award for gallantry will be known as the George Cross, while a second medal, for wider distribution, will be known as the George Medal.
As the king declared that "the battle . . . now is at our very doors," the city of London apparently was under air alarm. A few minutes earlier homebound London workers had dived into shelters and doorways as German raiders were reported over the capital in an evening raid.

Democratic Leaders 'Anxious to Bring End of Congressional Session While Republicans Discuss Recess Until After November Election

TO CAUCUS ON SPEAKER

Washington, Sept. 23.—(P)—Democratic leaders, anxious to bring the nine-month congressional session to an end this week, received promises today of some Republican support.
Although many Republicans opposed to adjournment, were talking instead about a recess until after November elections, Senators Reed (R-Kan.) and Johnson (R-Calif.) said they were ready to quit until January and go home this weekend.

"If anything happens, the president can call us back here anytime," Reed said.
On the other hand, Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), who has been credited with voicing White House views at times in recent months, said he was opposed to adjournment "in order to go home and campaign."
"The situation in Europe is worse than it's ever been," he said. "I think congress must stay here on the job in order to strengthen our defense at home and abroad. We have plenty to do to help the president and the country."

But possible snags to adjournment this week were ahead.
Senate-House conferees must adjust wide differences over excess profits tax legislation.
Senator Burke (D-Neb.) has threatened to filibuster unless senate leaders consent to consideration of the controversial Logan-Walter bill, approved by the House nearly 18 months ago. The bill provides for speeding up judicial review of decisions made by quasi-judicial government agencies.

House Democrats faced a caucus Wednesday on the question of selecting a majority leader to succeed Rep. Rayburn (D-Tex.), successor to the late Speaker Bankhead (D-Ala.) with a group of candidates threatening intra-party disputes.

PICK-UP SERVICE WILL CONTINUE INDEFINITELY

Washington, Sept. 23.—(P)—The non-stop airmail pick-up will continue to be an "exclusive service" in seven eastern states for an indefinite period.

"We are investigating the possibility of surveying the experience of the service," said Chief of Police John J. Dugan, as state and local police opened an inquiry.
Dugan said a small fire was used to heat the boilers in the basement of the building over the week-end. The blaze, which gutted the building, began on the second floor, he said. Police also found an open window in the rear of the adjacent high school building and footprints leading toward a corridor which connects the high school building with the burned structure, Dugan said.

Pennsylvania's Political Campaign Steps Up Tempo For Drive Down Home Stretch

As Democratic Leaders Weigh With Satisfaction Results of Roosevelt Visits, Republicans Prepare For Willkie's Tour of the State

ALL ARE CONFIDENT

By L. U. LESLIE
Associated Press Staff Writer
Harrisburg, Sept. 23.—(P)—Pennsylvania's political campaign, overshadowed for a time by the European war and peace-time conscription plans, stepped up its tempo today for an intensive drive down the home stretch.
With the presidential voting a little more than a month away, Democratic leaders weighed with satisfaction the results of President Roosevelt's visit to Philadelphia last week while Republican chiefs prepared for Wendell L. Willkie's tour of the state early in October for at least three major speeches.
U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey, campaigning for re-election, accompanied President Roosevelt on an automobile inspection tour of defense projects in Philadelphia. He renewed his prediction of a Democratic victory in Pennsylvania in November from the top of the ticket down, including a majority in the state house of representatives, now held by Republicans.

STATE'S FIRST MISSING PLANE GUARD LEAVES FOUND IN SWAMP

Allentown, Sept. 23.—(P)—While relatives and friends cheered and waved flags, Pennsylvania's 213th Coast Artillery moved toward a southern encampment today for a year's training.
The regiment, first of the state's National Guard to be called for service, has been dubbed the "First Defenders."
Traveling in 160 trucks and station wagons, units from Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton, Reading, Lancaster, Lebanon and Pottsville journeyed toward Fort Belvoir, 20 miles from Washington, where all will spend the night before continuing to Virginia Beach, Va.

The citizen-soldiers left with approximately 100 men short of the regiment's designated strength of 1,307 men and 57 commissioned officers. It was said here unofficially that regular army men or men called under the conscription law might be used to fill the gap.
Colonel Charles C. Curtis, commander of the regiment, said shortly before departing that 107 men had been dropped because of inability to meet the physical requirements.
All the units moved away from their home stations about 6 a. m.

IRON LUNG PATIENT IS FATHER OF GIRL

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(P)—Mrs. Fred Snite, Jr., wife of the famed infantile paralysis victim, gave birth to a baby girl weighing 8 pounds, 5 3/4 ounces at the Chicago Lying-in Hospital yesterday.
Mrs. Snite, 26, has been in the hospital since Sept. 11. The birth was by caesarian section.
Snite, who is 30, has lived in an "iron lung" almost continuously since he was stricken in Peiping, China, on April 1, 1926. He now is able to remain out of his respirator for several hours at a time with the use of a specially constructed apparatus that covers only his chest.
They were married Aug. 10, 1939 at the home of his parents in suburban River Forest. Mrs. Snite is the former Theresa Larkin, of Dayton, Ohio.

PRESIDENT APPEALS TO STATES

Chief Executive Discloses He Has Asked Forty-Eight Governors to Organize the Selective Service System in Their Commonwealths and to Recommend to Him at Once Persons to be Appointed for Directors and Local Board Members

REQUEST PATRIOTIC CITIZENS TO ASSIST

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 23.—(P)—President Roosevelt disclosed today that he had asked the 48 governors to organize the selective service system in their states and to recommend to him at once persons to be appointed state draft directors and members of local boards.
White House officials said, too, that the first two volumes of rules and regulations for conscription were on the way here from Washington, to be signed and made effective by the president.
Stephen Early, presidential secretary, was unable to say, however, whether the appointment of a national director of the draft would follow at once.
The identical requests to the governors were dispatched after Mr. Roosevelt had conferred last night with Robert P. Patterson, assistant secretary of war, and Frederick Osborn, chairman of a special committee of six which the president named secretary to help coordinate plans for the draft.
The president enclosed in each of the 48 letters a copy of his proclamation setting October 16, as the day for men in the 21 to 35 age bracket to register. He suggested that the state executive make similar proclamations. From the registrants 400,000 men will be (Turn to Page Nine)

Harrisburg, Sept. 23.—(P)—Commissioners of Pennsylvania's 67 counties came to the capital today to discuss with Governor James E. Keefe the details of the $500,000 plan for peace-time military service under the national conscription law.
Foremost among the topics was the personnel of the registrars.
"I think we can handle it all right through the local election boards, with regular election officials serving without pay as a patriotic duty," declared Fred C. Peters of Audomere, president of the State Association of County Commissioners, prior to the convening of the conference during the afternoon.

Breaks Three Windows Before She is Jailed

Philadelphia, Sept. 23.—(P)—A 27-year-old woman, homeless and penniless, wanted to be arrested "to get something to eat," but had to be persistent to get her wish.
This is her story as related today by Detective George Anderson.
Ordered from her rooming house, she heaved a stone through a store window, then waited for police.
"All they did was lecture me," she complained.
An hour later she broke two other windows.
She won.
Police charged her with disorderly conduct and arranged with a welfare agency to care for her.

SUPPLEMENTARY APPROPRIATION BILL APPROVED

House Committee Endorses Measure That Carries Among Other Things, a $93,000,000 Item For Training Defense Workers

TOTAL IS $267,733,738

Washington, Sept. 23.—(P)—A supplementary supply bill carrying among other things a $93,000,000 item for training defense workers and $80,000,000 for construction of new military and civil airports was approved today by the House appropriations committee.
The bill's total of $267,733,738 covered a variety of items. Of this amount, $207,473,727 was in direct cash appropriations and $60,259,011 in contract authorizations for which congress would have to provide funds later.
The total was $9,444,144 less than was requested by the budget bureau.
The committee estimated that the funds for defense training would provide for instruction of about 700,000 persons. This program called for $50,500,000 for the office of education which would have supervision of the work and $32,500,000 to permit the National Youth Administration to give additional work to unemployed youth who also would be afforded an opportunity for part-time instruction in defense work.
Asserting that it had been advised that the nation's existing airport system was "woefully inadequate for the needs of military aviation," the committee said the $50,000,000 recommended would permit a start on a $500,000,000 airport development program.
Inadequacy of existing fields was shown, the committee said, by the fact that there were only 36 civil landing areas which could accommodate all types of military planes under all weather conditions. In the fact of that, the committee added, the army and navy proposed to place tactical squadrons or training units on 90 civil airports in the near future.
As a companion item to airport development, the committee recommended a $2,301,000 outlay for additional air-navigation facilities and $500,000 to the weather bureau for expanded weather service.

CHURCHILL ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR BUILDING OF 1,000,000 BUNKS IN SUBTERRANEAN SHELTERS

Germany hurled a new type of "monster" bomber against England today while King George VI, in a broadcast to his empire, declared that "the armies of invasion are massed across the channel" and "we stand in the front line to champion those liberties and traditions that are our heritage."

Even as he spoke, home-bound London crowds ducked into air-raid shelters as sirens wailed for the capital's third alarm since dawn. The Germans reported, striking with "full strength."

London said the raiders introduced a huge new 4-engined bomber too big that Messerschmitt fighters appeared like dots around it. Official circles in Berlin today dismissed as a "tear jerker"—aimed at getting the United States into the war—the British announcement that a British refugee ship had been torpedoed and sunk 600 miles out on the storm-tossed Atlantic with a loss of 293 lives, including 83 children.

While stunned Britons mourned the tragedy and London newspapers flared headlines of "murder" and "Hitler guilt," Nazi officials declared that a German U-boat or plane had sunk any such passenger vessel and declared:

"If such a ship has been sunk, due notice has been given to all nations of a blockade around Britain."

The 113 survivors of the disaster, who had been en route to Canada, told of children lustily singing "Roll out the barrel . . . we'll have a ball of fun" as the ship went down in the darkness.

Most of the child victims were from London's bomb-shattered east end slums. Hour after hour, shuttling back and forth across the channel in small groups or singly, the raiders showered bombs on the empire capital, setting fires and spreading new ruin in the mid-city district.

Then, with the arrival of daylight, the Germans shifted to mass tactics, sending over four great waves of bombers and fighters to strike at London from three directions—over the Dover "Hell's Corner" region, the Essex coast and the Thames Estuary. Bombs fell in western London.

Rigid new British censorship restrictions blacked-out details, but the authoritative British Press Association said anti-aircraft guns and RAF fighter patrols scattered the German formations and drove most of them in disorder across the channel. Five Nazi planes were reported shot down.

While London air-raid sirens wailed, the capital's barrage balloons were sent to far greater heights than ever before in a new move to hamper the raiders.

Other German planes were reported over northwest and south-east England, indicating a vastly intensified assault. "Invasion weather" was little short of ideal, with clearing skies, a light south-wind and calm waters in the English channel.

Amid the mounting fury of the aerial siege, Prime Minister Winston Churchill's government announced plans for building 1,000,000 bunks in London's subterranean air-raid shelters—as well as the distribution of earplugs to all inhabitants of greater London.

In the Mediterranean struggle, the British fleet reported shelling Italian troops "with good results" along the Egyptian coast, and a Reuters (British news agency) dispatch (Turn to Page Nine) for British men and women civilians in all walks of life, "ranking next to the Victoria Cross."

"We are investigating the possibility of arson," said Chief of Police John J. Dugan, as state and local police opened an inquiry.

Dugan said a small fire was used to heat the boilers in the basement of the building over the week-end. The blaze, which gutted the building, began on the second floor, he said. Police also found an open window in the rear of the adjacent high school building and footprints leading toward a corridor which connects the high school building with the burned structure, Dugan said.

Pennsylvania's Political Campaign Steps Up Tempo For Drive Down Home Stretch

As Democratic Leaders Weigh With Satisfaction Results of Roosevelt Visits, Republicans Prepare For Wilkie's Tour of the State

ALL ARE CONFIDENT

By L. U. LESLIE
Associated Press Staff Writer
Harrisburg, Sept. 23.—(P)—Pennsylvania's political campaign, overshadowed for a time by the European war and peace-time conscription plans, stepped up its tempo today for an intensive drive down the home stretch.

With the presidential voting a little more than a month away, Democratic leaders weighed with satisfaction the results of President Roosevelt's visit to Philadelphia last week while Republican chiefs prepared for Wendell L. Wilkie's tour of the state early in October for at least three major speeches.

U. S. Senator Joseph E. Guffey, campaigning for re-election, accompanied President Roosevelt on an automobile inspection tour of defense projects in Philadelphia. He renewed his prediction of a Democratic victory in Pennsylvania in November from the top of the ticket down, including a majority in the state house of representatives, now held by Republicans.

At Harrisburg, however, Joseph (Turn to Page Nine)

STATE'S FIRST MISSING PLANE GUARD LEAVES FOUND IN SWAMP

Allentown, Sept. 23.—(P)—While relatives and friends cheered and waved flags, Pennsylvania's 213th Coast Artillery moved today toward a southern encampment today for a year's training.

The regiment, first of the state's National Guard to be called for service, has been dubbed the "First Defenders."

Traveling in 160 trucks and station wagons, units from Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton, Reading, Lancaster, Lebanon and Pottsville journeyed toward Fort Belvoir, 20 miles from Washington, where all will spend the night before continuing to Virginia Beach, Va.

The citizen-soldiers left with approximately 100 men short of the regiment's designated strength of 1,307 men and 57 commissioned officers. It was said here unofficially that regular army men or men called under the conscription law might be used to fill the gap.

Colonel Charles C. Curtis, commander of the regiment, said shortly before departing that 107 men had been dropped because of inability to meet the physical requirements.

All the units moved away from their home stations about 6 a. m.

PRESIDENT APPEALS TO STATES

Chief Executive Discloses He Has Asked Forty-Eight Governors to Organize the Selective Service System in Their Commonwealths and to Recommend to Him at Once Persons to be Appointed for Directors and Local Board Members

REQUEST PATRIOTIC CITIZENS TO ASSIST

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 23.—(P)—President Roosevelt disclosed today that he had asked the 48 governors to organize the selective service system in their states and to recommend to him at once persons to be appointed state draft directors and members of local boards.

White House officials said, too, that the first two volumes of rules and regulations for conscription were on the way here from Washington, to be signed and made effective by the president.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, was unable to say, however, whether the appointment of a national director of the draft would follow at once.

The identical requests to the governors were dispatched after Mr. Roosevelt had conferred last night with Robert P. Patterson, assistant secretary of war, and Frederick Osborn, chairman of a special committee of six which the president named secretary to help coordinate plans for the draft.

The president enclosed in each of the 48 letters a copy of his proclamation setting October 16, as the day for men in the 21 to 35 age bracket to register. He suggested that the state executives issue similar proclamations. From the registrants 400,000 men will be (Turn to Page Nine)

COMMISSIONERS AND GOVERNOR DISCUSS DRAFT

Harrisburg, Sept. 23.—(P)—Commissioners of Pennsylvania's 67 counties came to the capital today to discuss with Governor James E. Keener details of registering 1,500,000 residents in this state eligible for peace-time military service under the national conscription law.

Foremost among the topics was the personnel of the registrars.

"I think we can handle it all right through the local election boards, with regular election officials serving without pay as patriotic duty," declared Fred C. Peters of Ardmore, president of the State Association of County Commissioners, prior to the convening of the conference during the afternoon.

If there are insufficient volunteers among the election officials, Peters added, "we may call for (Turn to Page Two)

IRON LUNG PATIENT IS FATHER OF GIRL

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(P)—Mrs. Fred Snite, Jr., wife of the famed infantile paralysis victim, gave birth today to a baby girl weighing 8 pounds, 5 3/4 ounces at the Chicago Lying-in Hospital yesterday.

Mrs. Snite, 26, has been in the hospital since Sept. 1. The birth was by cesarean section.

Snite, who is 30, has lived in an "iron lung" almost continuously since he was stricken in Peiping, China, on April 1, 1936. He now is able to remain out of his respirator for several hours at a time with the use of a specially constructed apparatus that covers only his chest.

They were married Aug. 10, 1939 at the home of his parents in suburban River Forest. Mrs. Snite is the former Teresa Larkin, of Dayton, Ohio.

Breaks Three Windows Before She is Jailed

Philadelphia, Sept. 23.—(P)—A 27-year-old woman, homeless and penniless, wanted to be arrested "to get something to eat"—but had to be persistent to get her wish.

This is her story as related today by Detective George Anderson.

Ordered from her rooming house, she heaved a stone through a store window, then waited for police.

"All they did was lecture me," she complained. An hour later she broke two other windows.

She was arrested. Police charged her with disorderly conduct and arranged with a welfare agency to care for her.

SUPPLEMENTARY APPROPRIATION BILL APPROVED

House Committee Endorses Measure That Carries Among Other Things, a $93,000,000 Item For Training Defense Workers

TOTAL IS $267,733,738

Washington, Sept. 23.—(P)—A supplementary supply bill carrying among other things a $93,000,000 item for training defense workers and $80,000,000 for construction of new military and civil airports was approved today by the House appropriations committee.

The bill's total of $267,733,738 covered a variety of items. Of this amount, $207,475,727 was in direct cash appropriations and $60,258,011 in contract authorizations for which congress would have to provide funds later.

The total was $9,444,144 less than was requested by the budget bureau.

The committee estimated that the funds for defense training would provide for instruction of about 700,000 persons. This program called for $60,500,000 for the office of education which would have supervision of the work and $32,500,000 to permit the National Youth Administration to give additional work to unemployed youth who also would be afforded an opportunity for part-time instruction in defense work.

Asserting that it had been advised that the nation's existing airport system was "woefully inadequate for the needs of military aviation, the committee said the $80,000,000 recommended would permit a start on a $500,000 airport development program.

Inadequacy of existing fields was shown, the committee said, by the fact that there were only 36 civil landing areas which could accommodate all types of military planes under all weather conditions. In the fact of that, the committee added, the army and navy proposed to place tactical squadrons or training units on 90 civil airports in the near future.

As a companion item to airport development, the committee recommended a $2,901,000 outlay for additional air-navigation facilities and $500,000 to the weather bureau for expanded weather service.

KIDNAPING ADMITTED BY ALIEN

Unharmed, Baby Marc De Tristan, Jr., is Safe in Home of His Titled Family While Tight-Lipped Federal Bureau of Investigation Officials Hold Man of German Descent For Stealing Babe Last Friday

DRAMATIC ENCOUNTER STAGED ON HIGHWAY

Hillsborough, Calif., Sept. 22.—(P)—Unharmed, baby Marc De Tristan, Jr., was safe in the arms of his titled, rapturously happy family today while tight-lipped Federal Bureau of Investigation men held his accused abductor, an alien German, Wilhelm Jakob Muenlenbroich, in some secret spot.

Joy reigned in Hillsborough, whose residents last night turned out by the thousands to roar a Hollywood welcome as Count Marc De Tristan proudly bore his son up a long path to the waiting mother, the child's curly head bobbing above the jubilant throng.

On a grimmer note, Chief of Police C. M. Hirschey said:

"I think that more than one person was involved in this kidnapping, and I expect several sensational revelations to be made when the trial opens."

And he added: "I don't want Muenlenbroich in my jail, there are too many trees close by."

The F. B. I. said Muenlenbroich, 40, had confessed kidnapping three-year-old Marc Friday, striking the child's nurse to the St. Yesterday his confused flight ended in mountainous El Dorado county, as two alert hunters braved his revolver to disarm and truss him.

Immigration Inspector E. C. Benson of Oakland said the dark-skinned abductor, a seaman, was arrested for illegal entry in 1925, but his records did not show whether he had been deported. The F. B. I. learned he had entered from Canada under the German quota ten years later.

Chief Hirschey said he had asked the F. B. I. when it finished with Muenlenbroich, to turn him over to San Francisco police for subsequent transfer to San Mateo county. The minimum penalty, upon conviction, would be life imprisonment under California's "little Lindbergh" law.

Yesterday's hero, a hard-fisted, modest 220-pound sawmill owner named Cecil Wetzel, temporarily dropped from view after delivering the handsome boy and his sullen kidnaper to federal men at River Pine, a village of 50 souls.

The child had not a mark or bruise, the Dr. Tristan family physician said, yet it was learned he had been seriously close to death in the wild ride of the stolen kidnapping car.

Pupil Hikes to School Daily Only to Be Turned Away Because of Vaccination Law

Sharon, Sept. 23.—(P)—Many a youngster probably would like to be in the shoes of 10-year-old Earl Allison Jr., when he ambles off to school daily knowing that he's going to be turned away.

Earl is the son of western Pennsylvania's vaccination "rebel" who has been arrested seven times because the boy was not in school.

The elder Allison just doesn't believe in vaccination and Earl can't attend classes without being immunized against smallpox.

But the father makes the boy walk to school each morning so the parents won't be accused of "wilfully violating" the compulsory attendance law.

After serving a 20-day jail sentence in his fight against vaccination, the 32-year-old Allison late last year took his son and hitchhiked to California.

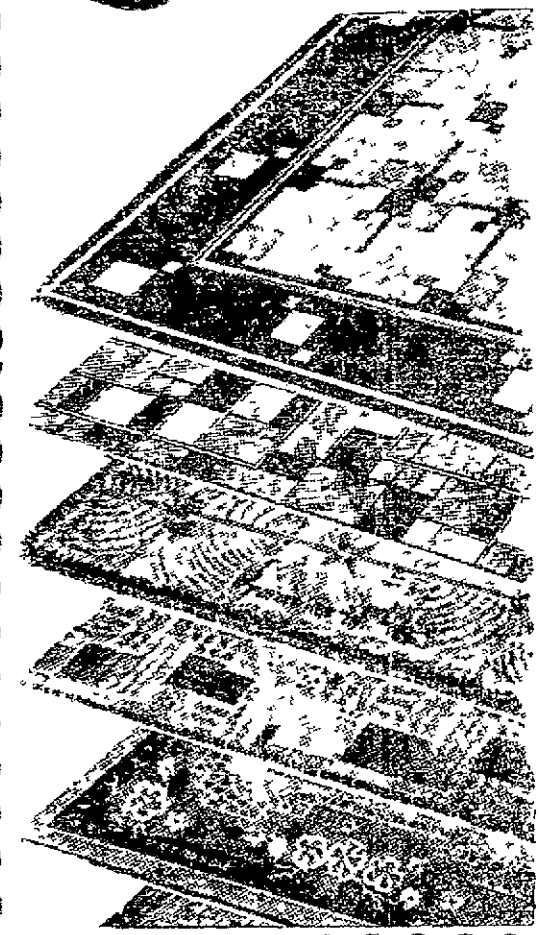

Authorities thought the long controversy ended but Allison returned several weeks ago and rejoined his wife and another two-year-old child, declaring "I felt that to remain away would be cowardly."

Earl Jr. was on hand when classes resumed this month at the nearby Pritchard's Corners grade school and his vaccination—or lack of it—again became an issue. School officials have not announced whether prosecution would be resumed.

Mill Will Pay For Contamination of Brokenstraw Creek

That the metallurgical mill which was responsible for the pollution of Brokenstraw Creek may make a substantial contribution to the State Fish Commission was indicated today by W L Stevenson, director of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering.

The director stated that negotiations for a contribution are progressing nicely. Engineers have determined that wastes from the mill were deposited accidentally in the stream. Stevenson declined to name the company pending completion of the negotiations.

The contamination of the stream one of the finest pieces of fishing water in northwestern Pennsylvania, wiped out fish life from a point west of the County city limits to the mouth of Youngsville.

Start Solicitation in Commercial And Industrial Divisions of Drive

Solicitation was started this morning in the Industrial and Commercial Divisions of the Warren General Hospital's $50,000 financial campaign, with picked workers in business houses and manufacturing firms contacting employees to help raise the amount required to carry on the work of the institution during the next two years.

"As a wage earner in the community, why should I contribute to Warren General Hospital?" is a question most frequently asked of workers in the campaign, according to General Chairman J. H. Alexander.

In reply, Mr. Alexander pointed out that there is no other hospital near where the wage earner, his family and friends can receive care in the event of an emergency and for that reason the Warren General must be kept available. "For the wage earner with modest means, the cost of going to a more distant hospital is practically prohibitive," he stated. "Warren General has always rendered outstanding service and will continue to do so if it is not shackled by debt."

"The wage earner in Warren and vicinity has a stake in this community and has a responsibility in seeing that the best interests of the community are safeguarded."

Workers in the campaign are suggesting that firm giving be based on a penny per day per employee for the 20 month period, or approximately 600 days. It is recommended that executives be asked to subscribe in keeping with their responsibility and financial ability.

Wage earners are being encouraged to value the hospital at 10 cents a week for a period of 20 months, or approximately 80 weeks, making a pledge of $1.00 for each of the eight quarterly payment dates during the 20-month period.

DEMOCRATS IN LARGE MEETING AT SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, Sept. 23.—A meeting and rally of Sheffield township Democrats and friends held Friday evening in the local Democratic headquarters under the auspices of the Sheffield Democratic Club attracted a capacity crowd and was easily the most enthusiastic and successful event of the kind held here in some time.

The large assemblage heard with much interest the remarks of the two speakers of the evening—Attorney C. Henry Nicholson, of Warren, county Democratic chairman and candidate for member of the general assembly and Harry Jones.

Attorney John Boland Jr., of Sharon, who was to have been the principal speaker, was unable to attend because of another speaking engagement. A letter from him expressing his regret at being unable to attend and containing a promise to appear in Sheffield later was read.

A most enjoyable program of music was presented during the evening. The North Warren Troubadours, an instrumental group consisting of three young ladies and a boy, played several selections. Vocal offerings by a trio consisting of Louise Anundson, Marjorie Carlson and Jeanne Brainer. Harampoulis were "Sierra Sue" and "In a Little Old Garden." Mary Konestoba was their accompanist. A violin solo, "Allegro Brillant," and encore, "Musical Maestro," was played by Mary Pat O'Connor, with Josephine Okerberg as accompanist.

The program was in charge of Michael Papavero, treasurer of the local club and secretary of the county committee.

Refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake and coffee were served after the formal program had been concluded. Mrs. Carl J. Anderson was chairman of the refreshments committee.

CANDIDATES TO OPEN CAMPAIGN IN THE SECTION

The three candidates on the Republican state ticket will make their first campaign appearance in this section of Pennsylvania tomorrow, with meetings in Forest county and McKean county.

It had been the intention of the candidates to include a visit to Warren, but because of the preoccupation of Warren Republican leaders and workers with the drive for registration, the Warren visit was deferred until a later date.

Headed by Jay Cooke, candidate for the United States senate; James F. Malone, Jr., of Pittsburg, candidate for state treasurer, and State Senator Frederick T. Geider, candidate for auditor general, the campaign party will arrive at Tionesta at 10 o'clock standard time.

From Tionesta, they will go to Endeavor, where a rally of Forest county voters and political workers will hear each candidate make a short, informal address.

At the conclusion of the Endeavor meeting, McKean County Chairman James Connolly, of Ludlow, will accompany the party on a whirlwind tour through that county, with stops at Smethport and nearby communities. The candidates will meet voters and workers throughout the county, and then proceed to the Emory Hotel in Bradford, where they will be guests at a dinner.

HUNTER PLACED ON PAROLE IN SHOOTING CASE

Cecil D. Blair, 23, of Clintonville, was found guilty of shooting a human in mistake for game by a Forest county jury last Friday afternoon. Judge D. U. Arnd, of Warren, who presided at the court session, sentenced Blair to pay $50 costs, placed him on parole for two years, ordered his hunting license suspended for ten years and ordered him to pay $300 to the personal representative of the deceased's family.

Blair was charged with firing the shot which fatally injured William Hines, 15, also of Clintonville, a member of the same hunting party. Blair, the first to reach the injured youth, summoned other members of the hunting party, including the boy's father, Stewart Himes. They brought him to the Kane Summit Hospital, where he died a few hours later, the first fatality of the big game season in this section, which took a toll of at least three lives and seriously wounded several others.

A coroner's jury found that the youth died from effects of a bullet wound fired by an unknown hunter. At that time testimony indicated that the boy had been shot twice, once through the wrist and the second through his hip, ranging upward into the lower abdomen. Investigation later, headed by Sergeant John Mullaney, of the Kane sub-station of State Police, disclosed one shot had been fired and immediate efforts were being made to match the slug taken from the body of the youth with guns owned by nimrods in that section.

It was while officers were picking up the guns that Blair confessed shooting Himes in mistake for a deer. He was arraigned on the game law charge and later released under bail. The case, scheduled for early this year in Forest county court, was delayed by change of pleas and opened Wednesday in the term which was concluded Saturday afternoon.

The case marked the first court trial in this area on the charge of shooting a human in mistake for game which was incorporated in the state game laws a few years ago.

The court session was concluded with a case against Daniel Meal, of Marienville, charged with larceny of oil lease property. Meal was apprehended by State Trooper Andrew Hicherko, of Kane, for the theft which occurred in Howe township, Forest county. Meal pleaded nolle contendere and was paroled for two years.

LEGION ELECTS NEW OFFICERS THIS EVENING

The annual election of officers of Chief Cornplanter Post, No. 135, American Legion, will be held at the post home, 710 Pennsylvania avenue west, this evening at 8:30. Nominees for the various post offices are: Commander, N. K. Wendelboe; senior vice commander, William I. Walker; Jr. vice commander, John E. Meade; adjutant, Edgar E. Hawley; finance officer, James V. Scallie; historian, George Schweitzer; chaplain, Carl Andereg; sergeant-at-arms, John Andereg; trustee (3 years), Ben Klinear.

These men will conduct the activities of the post during the Legion year which begins October 1st. Among the first activities of the new year will be an intensive membership drive, plans for which will be announced early in October when the new post officers will be installed by Maurice F. McDonald, of Ridgway, district commander of the 28th district.

Among other matters of importance for discussion this evening will be the Legion's participation in and observance of Armistice Day. It is expected that details of the various events to be held that day will be worked out by a committee to be appointed by the newly elected commander. A complete program for the day will be presented to the post for approval at the meeting on October 14th.

At the conclusion of tonight's meeting the house committee will serve a buffet lunch.

Window shopping night Wednesday! 9-23-24

At the final session of the Oil Creek Baptist Association, held Saturday afternoon, F. H. Hetrick, of Warren, was elected vice-moderator for the year 1940-1941, and Mrs. Alice E. Sill, of Warren, was re-elected clerk.

The Rev. E. F. Thorne, of Oil City, was elected moderator and A. B. Cody, of Bradford, was again named treasurer.

Others elected include the following: Board of trustees—R. A. Blair, W. H. Branch and J. H. Hicks, all of Erie; Almon Bloomquist, of Kane; F. S. Kitchell, Oil City; Albert Haslett, North East; A. B. Cody, Bradford, and B. H. Donovan, Warren. Chairman of committee on ordination, Rev. G. E. Dupree, of Union City. Chairman of missionary committee, Rev. C. C. Rich, of Erie. Chairman of committee on evangelism, Rev. C. E. Downing, of Erie. Chairman of committee on education and young people's work, Rev. J. A. Davidson, Warren.

The Rev. C. A. Fuller was named trustee for Camp Corby. Directors of the Baptist Home and Orphanage are Rev. H. A. Young, Kane; Rev. G. E. Dupree, Union City; Rev. C. A. Fuller, Centreville, and Mrs. R. W. Reynolds, Hydetown. The Rev. W. T. Vandever, pastor of First church, Erie, was named successor to the late Dr. H. R. MacMillan, of Bradford, as a member of the state board of managers from the Oil Creek association, and F. S. Kitchell was elected a member of the state nominating committee, representing the association.

Delegates from the various churches, including the young people's division, numbered about 300. The Saturday evening joint banquet for adult delegates and young people was featured by a musical program and humorous sketch presented by the B. Y. P. U., of Bradford. The evening devotional period in the auditorium was under the auspices of the B. Y. P. U., of Wayne Park church, Erie. Dr. Roy E. Deer, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Baptist Convention, gave a challenging message to the young people at the eight o'clock service on the subject, "The Curse of Acrophobia," stressing the fact that young people today are too much inclined to fear "the high road" and tread the "low road," not using their God-given powers to the full extent of their privilege and power.

During the day, messages full of inspiration and profit were given by state leaders and pastors of the association. The Rev. H. C. Loughhead, rural work director of the Pennsylvania Baptist Convention, spoke during the missionary hour. Also pastors and leaders from the smaller churches in the association gave interesting reports of their accomplishments in spite of many rural problems such as bad roads, widely scattered membership and limited facilities which confront many of these smaller churches.

Resolutions adopted at the Saturday afternoon session included appreciation to the local press for their courtesy in granting adequate space for publicity; to the association treasurer, A. B. Cody, who has served so efficiently in that office for twenty years; to Mrs. Alice E. Sill, clerk, who has served in that capacity for eighteen years past; to the local church for the hospitality extended.

The following resolutions with regard to temperance, education and war were given unanimous endorsement:

"Resolved that as the public is looking to the church for moral and temperance leadership, we urge that our people inaugurate an extensive educational program in our churches and church schools to this end; and

Whereas, the governments of European and Asiatic nations have failed to learn the futility of war, and in view of the disturbing political atmosphere in our own nation, we urge the steadfast adherence of our people to a policy of national and international peace."

ZONE LAWYERS TO TALK TAXES NEXT SATURDAY

Taxes may be an unpopular subject to the average citizen, but not to the lawyers of northwest Pennsylvania, judging from the interest manifested by them in the coming Institute in Tax Law which is to be held at the Riverside Hotel, Cambridge Springs on September 25th. The law of income taxes, estate taxes, corporation taxes, personal property taxes, and even the proposed Federal Profits Tax Act (if enacted by that date) will receive their attention at the Institute.

Leading the speakers is W. A. Siefert, Esq., of Pittsburgh, a member of the law firm of Reed, Smith, Shaw and McClay, and one of the outstanding authorities on tax law in Pennsylvania. He will be assisted by W. W. Booth, A. G. Wallerstedt, R. L. Kirkpatrick, J. G. Robinson, T. P. Johnson, W. D. Wall and E. C. McHugh, all of Pittsburgh, who are associated with him in handling the tax matters for his firm, each being a specialist in some phase of tax law or practice. The speakers will conduct an open forum on tax law following the addresses.

The Institute, which is held annually under the auspices of Zone Seven of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, aims to help practicing lawyers to keep abreast of the latest developments of some branch of the law.

Following the Institute, the 2nd

COUNTY RELIEF ROLLS CONTINUE THEIR DECLINE

The downward trend in direct relief rolls in Warren county continued during the week ending September 14 when a net decrease of 15 cases was reported, according to Howard L. Russell, state secretary of public assistance.

This decrease brought the total number of cases in the county down to 178, representing 398 persons, the lowest figure in many months.

The decrease was the result of 20 cases being closed and only five opened during the week. Of the cases opened, all resulted from losses in private employment. This was offset, however, by the fact that six persons obtained private employment, seven received WPA jobs and seven were taken from the direct rolls for other reasons.

Cost of relief in the county during the week was $947.43. Warren county's trend followed that throughout the state, where a net drop of 4,079 cases was reported during the week, bringing the state total down to 152,362 cases, representing 442,323 persons. This was a net decline of some 120,000 cases from the same week in 1939. Cost of relief in the state for the week was $1,023,634.50.

Following are the figures for some nearby counties: Crawford Cases, 494; decrease, 2; cost, $2,760.70. Clarion Cases, 276; decrease, 7; cost, $1,651.90. Elk Cases, 230; decrease, 2; cost, $1,281.19. Erie Cases, 1,706; decrease, 40; cost, $10,579.20. Forest Cases, 56; increase, 4; cost, $361.62. McKean Cases, 331; increase, 2; cost, $1,996.24. Venango Cases, 778; decrease, 12; cost, $5,078.26.

THANKSGIVING DATE

Announcement by Governor James that this year Pennsylvania will observe as Thanksgiving the last Thursday in November further confuses an already bewildering situation so far as citizens of the Keystone State are concerned.

As the situation now exists President Roosevelt is expected to proclaim November 21st as the day for observing the traditional holiday and Governor James has announced that Pennsylvanians will celebrate the event one week later.

A nationwide survey seems to indicate that citizens of many Republican states, if they trail along with their governors, will eat turkey on the 28th, while residents of Democratic states whose executives will follow the suggestion of the president, will decapitate the gobbler one week earlier.

Fifteen states, eight less than last year, will observe the traditional last Thursday. Eleven of the fifteen states refusing to go along with the earlier date have Republican governors. They include the six New England states, Idaho, Kansas, Iowa, Pennsylvania and South Dakota. Four states with Democratic governors are Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Tennessee. Of the thirty states conforming with the president's suggestion, six have Republican governors. Three states have not yet decided between the two dates, Arkansas, Kentucky and Wisconsin.

The date was advanced last year to lengthen the Christmas shopping period, when sentiment in the nation seemed to be pretty much divided on the question as to whether or not it was a good plan.

As far as we are concerned we're withholding any expression of opinion until we learn just what Burgess Steber intends to do about it.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK COMING

Fire Chief Douglas Kropf is enlisting the co-operation of all citizens in the proper local observance of Fire Prevention Week, which will be during the period of October 6th to 12th.

Considering the kind of weather we have been having of late it might be well to say something now about fire prevention. Fire Prevention Day is generally October 9, the anniversary of the great Chicago fire, and the full week containing that day is set aside as a period for trying to do everything humanly possible to guard against fires in homes, industries and institutions.

Every precaution should be taken in every town to guard against fires. Once fires are lighted for the winter in the basement furnaces, it is almost too late to take precautions. They should be taken now while there is still time.

Fire prevention is always a "boon to mankind" for without this science of fire control our civilization never would have been possible.

Start now making plans for one of the most important special weeks of the year!

CHANCE FOR GROUND SCHOOL

The first ground school at the Warren airport sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, under the direction of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, has been brought to a successful conclusion, and about two score students who attended are receiving blanks showing their passing grades.

For this achievement credit is due "Slip" King, manager of the airport, and his staff of assistants, with special mention going to Karl Rogers, Mrs. Helen Walker and Bud Maier.

Decision is pending on the starting of another class, but the idea prevails that the chances for having Aeronautics Authority approval for second course here may be much greater if a goodly number of young people express a desire to enroll.

To this end it is suggested that any person interested in joining another ground school communicate with Mr. King at the airport at once, and this applies, not only to residents of Warren, but to citizens of Sheffield, Russell, Youngsville, Sugar Grove, Tidoute, or any other community in the county.

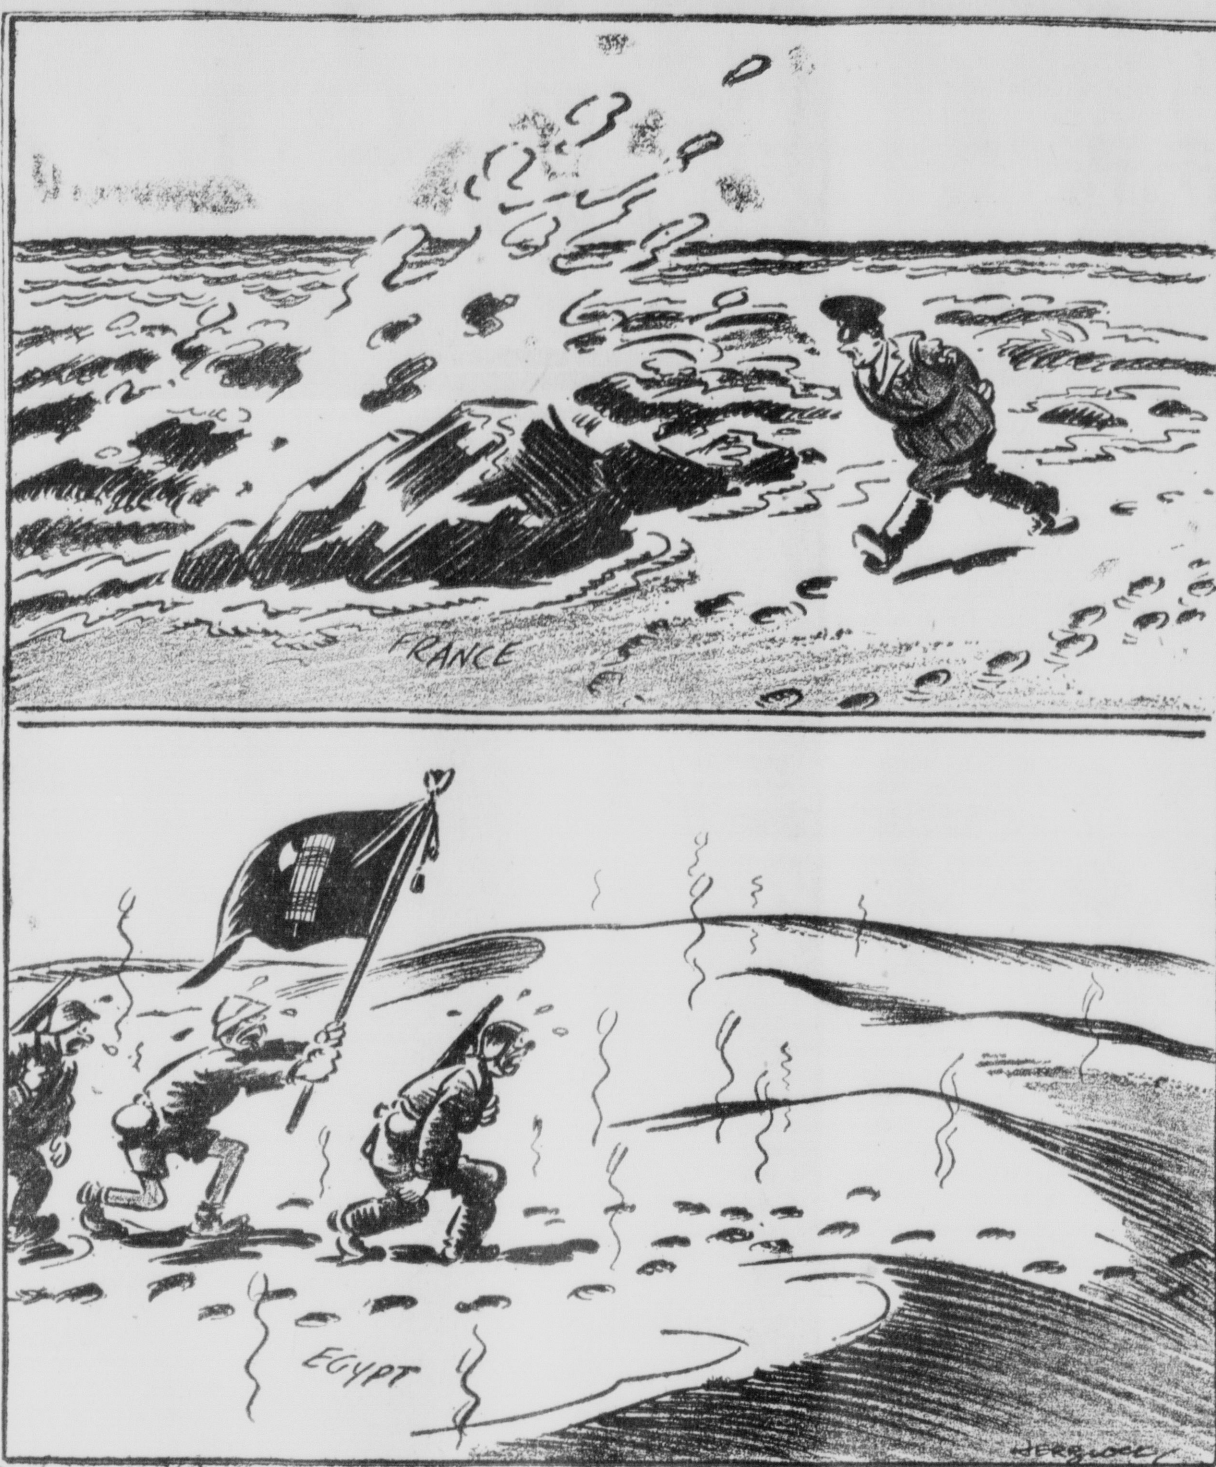

The quicker a sizable list of prospects is secured at the airport, the stronger argument Warren will have for another ground school. Better act now.

Water!

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

SAN JUAN, P. R.—This city is indescribably beautiful. As you round the ancient fortress of El Morro and enter the harbor, the beauty of it gets in your eyes. You can see sharks cutting toward the ship, but this does not deter the diving boys from leaping into the water and swimming out to meet the ship. Their shrill cries of "Centavos, Amigos!" come up from the water like the strange implorations of articulate water-babies. The ship's screws churn up the mud from the harbor bottom, but the diving boys do not mind a little mud. Not one coin in a thousand is lost. They dive for them, pop up to the surface, exhibit the coin, and plunk them into their mouths.

In the center of the harbor, moored there since Italy's entry into the war, is an Italian freighter. A dozen U. S. destroyers are scattered about the harbor. In an hour from now there may be only three. They come and go ceaselessly on patrols. The sky sings with the drone of American bombers and fighter ships.

IN THE distance rises the Puerto Rican mountains—probably a continuation of the American Appalachian chain. But the coastal sector, the City of San Juan itself, and the plains of the island are granaries of plantains and sugar cane, of coffee and coconuts, of bananas and pineapple. This city is so old that it startles you to think of just how old it really is, compared to the United States. The architecture has held on to its Spanish balconies and iron work, its courtyards and high, cool arches. You pass the seat of tropical medicines, and it is a wonder of pure Spanish design.

An eyesore nearby is the new Capital, which is blunt and incongruous in its plain American style. The streets are very narrow and rocky in San Juan. Many are uphill. And nobody moves very fast. You simply take your time because after all there is always manana, and it does get pretty warm in the sun, if you exert yourself. Even the San Juan dogs stroll when they chase cats. Along the waterfront there are goals sleeping in the streets, and on the street corners you see natives with poles to which are tied great numbers of land crabs. These crabs are for sale and are said to be delicious, although I will have to take their word for it.

WE ARE stopping at the Condado hotel, which looks out on a palm fringed lagoon on one side and the Atlantic ocean on the other. When you first walk into the terrace restaurant, which is in soft blues, and look out over the sea, the magnificence and the beauty of it takes your breath. The sunsets from my window seem like something Billy Rose thought up.

Tonight we are dancing at the famed Escombrón beach club to the music of Ralph Barlow, a young American who went to Puerto Rico and became noted for his boleros. Everybody dances here, so maybe I will just sit and watch. The bolero, the tango, the rumba, and the conga. Not many Americans can dance with the sheer abandon that they do down here. You've got to feel it. You've got to begin when you're in swaying clothes, and keep on until you reach your dotage. This just about lets me out, because I got out of swaddling clothes some thirty-odd years ago.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Portugal's Famous Navigators Honored

PORTUGAL'S Golden Age, the Era of Discoveries, is recalled by the stamp above, second pair of a series of eight commemorating the 800th anniversary of the founding of the nation. The Discoverers' stamp depicts the maritime heroes climbing to the stars before a modernized prow of an early caravel.

Portugal attained maritime greatness during the period from 1415 to 1540. Wise rulers, particularly Prince Henry the Navigator, aided and encouraged exploration.

While Columbus and Cabot sought a westward route to India, Vasco da Gama sailed around Africa, reached India and returned with cargo that sold for 60 times the cost of the voyage. Other explorers touched Cape Verde, Tangier, Senegal, the Azores, Guinea and Congo, developed the nation's colonial possessions. At one time, Lisbon was the world's greatest commercial center.

Portugal lacked factories, and England and the Netherlands were able to cut off the nation's supply of export goods. This, and 60 years of Spanish rule, produced Portugal's decline as a maritime power.

A Washington Daybook

By JOSEPH W. MARTIN, JR.
Chairman, Republican National Committee and Republican Leader in House of Representatives

WASHINGTON—The forthcoming election transcends in importance any issue of purely partisan politics.

It represents a struggle to determine the future course of the nation for possibly generations to come, economic, social and political.

The paramount issue Americans are called upon to decide is whether we shall continue to preserve the individual liberties and the free institutions guaranteed to us under the Constitution, or whether we shall depart yet further from the American principles of self-government along the road of foreign concepts of rule by dictatorship.

The present administration remains steadfast in its adherence to bureaucratic and socialistic trends in spite of its seven years of failure. Through the New Deal system of uncured spending and borrowing we have reached an all-time high debt of staggering proportions and continue to face annual deficits of billions, even without having entered upon the thus far abortive effort to accomplish an adequate national defense.

THERE is, furthermore, the issue of departure from the wise precedent and tradition against any individual serving a third term in the Presidency, a tradition upheld by all of our Presidents from Washington down, and which it is now sought to flout.

If this effort be successful, it is fraught with the gravest dangers even to the possibility of a life tenure for the chief executive.

What would become of our Democracy under such circumstances and under the influence of present world trends, it is not difficult to foresee.

It is for these, among many other reasons, that I shall support Wendell Willkie and Senator Charles L. McNary for President and Vice-President of the United States and not merely because of the circumstances that I am a Republican.

It is for these same reasons that millions of former Democrats will support Wendell Willkie for the Presidency and will have no part in the third term effort to establish the fiction of the indispensable man or to uphold other fallacies of the New Deal.

I AM and always have been a Republican, but were the situation reversed I should feel and act as do these Democrats, who are putting country above partisanship and patriotism above false hero worship.

We need a businessman in the White House, not only to solve our grave economic problems, brought about by seven years of waste and extravagance, but to insure that adequate defense which all Americans, regardless of party, demand and which alone will serve to safeguard the nation's peace and security.

Wendell Willkie can bring about a coordination of effort on the part of government, business and industry that will insure the marshaling of all our forces toward this end.

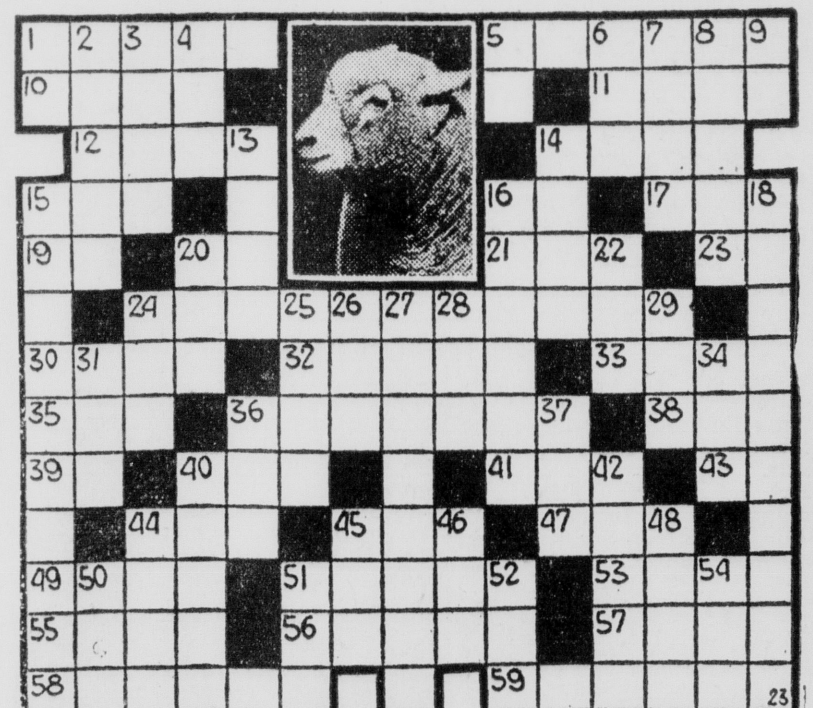

He will, furthermore, by the restoration of business confidence, insure the revival and perpetuation of free enterprise and individual initiative which have made this nation industrially great and prosperous and which step alone can bring about the re-employment of both labor and capital.

WE SHALL be assured of an administration responsible to the people, one in which the three branches of government, legislative, judicial and executive, shall each perform the functions allotted to it under the Constitution and in which the executive will not seek to usurp the prerogatives of the other co-equal branches.

With Wendell Willkie in the White House the nation will once more be united in spirit and in purpose to carry out the destiny of a free people.

THANKSGIVING DATE

Announcement by Governor James that this year Pennsylvania will observe as Thanksgiving the last Thursday in November further confuses an already bewildering situation so far as citizens of the Keystone State are concerned.

As the situation now exists President Roosevelt is expected to proclaim November 21st as the day for observing the traditional holiday and Governor James has announced that Pennsylvanians will celebrate the event one week later.

A nationwide survey seems to indicate that citizens of many Republican states, if they trail along with their governors, will eat turkey on the 28th, while residents of Democratic states whose executives will follow the suggestion of the president, will de-capitate the gobbler one week earlier.

Fifteen states, eight less than last year, will observe the traditional last Thursday. Eleven of the fifteen states refusing to go along with the earlier date have Republican governors. They include the six New England states, Idaho, Kansas, Iowa, Pennsylvania and South Dakota. Four states with Democratic governors are Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Tennessee. Of the thirty states conforming with the president's suggestion, six have Republican governors. Three states have not yet decided between the two dates, Arkansas, Kentucky and Wisconsin.

The date was advanced last year to lengthen the Christmas shopping period, when sentiment in the nation seemed to be pretty much divided on the question as to whether or not it was a good plan.

As far as we are concerned we're withholding any expression of opinion until we learn just what Burgess Steber intends to do about it.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK COMING

Fire Chief Douglas Kropf is enlisting the co-operation of all citizens in the proper local observance of Fire Prevention Week, which will be during the period of October 6th to 12th.

Considering the kind of weather we have been having of late it might be well to say something now about fire prevention. Fire Prevention Day is generally October 9, the anniversary of the great Chicago fire, and the full week containing that day is set aside as a period for trying to do everything humanly possible to guard against fires in homes, industries and institutions.

Every precaution should be taken in every town to guard against fires. Once fires are lighted for the winter in the basement furnaces, it is almost too late to take precautions. They should be taken now while there is still time.

Fire prevention is always a "boon to mankind" for without this science of fire control our civilization never would have been possible.

Start now making plans for one of the most important special weeks of the year!

CHANCE FOR GROUND SCHOOL

The first ground school at the Warren airport sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, under the direction of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, has been brought to a successful conclusion, and about two score students who attended are receiving blanks showing their passing grades.

For this achievement credit is due "Slip" King, manager of the airport, and his staff of assistants, with special mention going to Karl Rogers, Mrs. Helen Walker and Bud Maier.

Decision is pending on the starting of another class, but the idea prevails that the chances for having Aeronautics Authority approval for second course here may be much greater if a goodly number of young people express a desire to enroll.

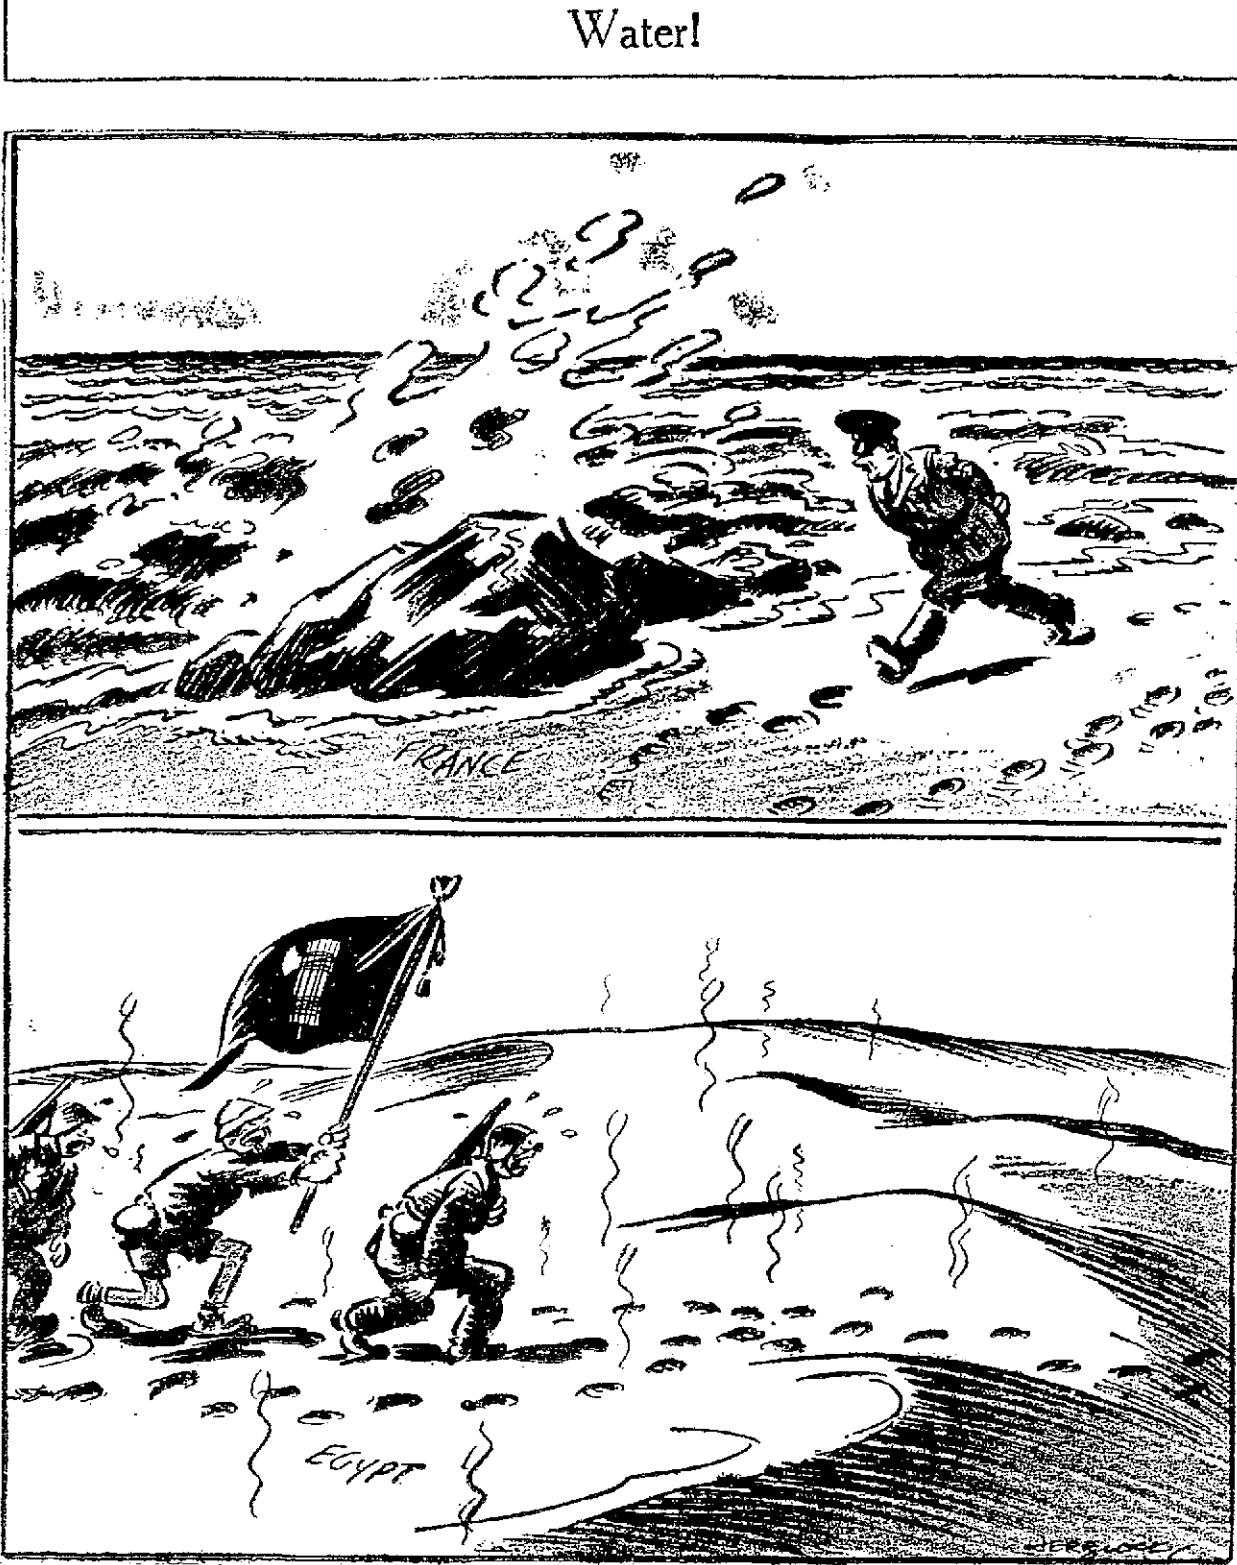

To this end it is suggested that any person interested in joining another ground school communicate with Mr. King at the airport at once, and this applies, not only to residents of Warren, but to citizens of Sheffield, Russell, Youngsville, Sugar Grove, Tidoute, or any other community in the county.

The quicker a sizable list of prospects is secured at the airport, the stronger argument Warren will have for another ground school. Better act now.

T-H-O-U-G-H-T-S

It is not for kings, O Lemuel, it is not for kings to drink wine; nor for princes strong drink: let them drink and forget the law, and pervert the judgment of any of the afflicted.—Proverbs 31:4, 5.

Wine invents nothing; it only tallies. It lets out all secrets.—Schiller.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

SAN JUAN, P. R.—This city is indescribably beautiful. As you round the ancient fortress of El Morro and enter the harbor, the beauty of it gets in your eyes. You can see sharks cutting toward the ship, but this does not deter the diving boys from leaping into the water and swimming out to meet the ship. Their shrill cries of "Centavos, Amigos," comes up from the water like the strange implorations of articulate water-babies. The ship's screws churn up the mud from the harbor bottom, but the diving boys do not mind a little mud. Not one coin in a thousand is lost. They dive for them, pop up to the surface, exhibit the coin, and plunk them into their mouths.

In the center of the harbor, moored there since Italy's entry into the war, is an Italian freighter. A dozen U. S. destroyers are scattered about the harbor. In an hour from now there may be only three. They come and go ceaselessly on patrols. The sky sings with the drone of American bombers and fighter ships.

IN THE distance rises the Puerto Rican mountains—probably a continuation of the American Appalachian chain. But the coastal sector, the City of San Juan itself, and the plains of the island are granaries of plantains and sugar cane, of coffee and coconuts, of bananas and pineapple. This city is so old that it startles you to think of just how old it really is, compared to the United States. The architecture has held on to its Spanish balconies and iron work, its courtyards and high, cool arches. You pass the seat of tropical medicines, and it is a wonder of pure Spanish design.

An eyesore nearby is the new Capital, which is blunt and ingenuously in its plain American style. The streets are very narrow and rocky in San Juan. Many are uphill. And nobody moves very fast. You simply take your time because after all there is always manana, and it does get pretty warm in the sun, if you exert yourself when they chase cats. Along the waterfront there are goats sleeping in the streets, and on the street corners you see natives with poles to which are tied great numbers of land crabs. These crabs are for sale and are said to be delicious, although I will have to take their word for it.

WE ARE stopping at the Conrado hotel, which looks out on a palm fringed lagoon on one side and the Atlantic ocean on the other. When you first walk into the terrace restaurant, which is in soft blues, and look out over the sea, the magnificence and the beauty of it takes your breath. The sunsets from my window seem like something Billy Rose thought up.

Tonight we are dancing at the famed Escombron beach club to the music of Ralph Barlow, a young American who went to Puerto Rico and became noted for his boleros. Everybody dances here, so maybe I will just sit and watch. The bolero, the tango, the rumba, and the conga. Not many Americans can dance with the sheer abandon that they do down here. You've got to feel it. You've got to begin when you're in swaddling clothes, and keep on until you reach your dotage. This just about lets me out, because I got out of swaddling clothes some thirty-odd years ago.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Portugal's Famous Navigators Honored

PORTUGAL'S Golden Age, the Era of Discoveries, is recalled by the stamp above, second pair of a series of eight commemorating the 800th anniversary of the founding of the nation. The Discoverers' stamp depicts the maritime heroes climbing to the stars before a modernized prow of an early caravel.

Portugal attained maritime greatness during the period from 1415 to 1540. Wise rulers, particularly Prince Henry the Navigator, aided and encouraged exploration.

While Columbus and Cabot sought a westward route to India, Vasco da Gama sailed around Africa, reached India and returned with cargo that sold for 60 times the cost of the voyage. Other explorers touched Cape Verde, Tangier, Senegal, the Azores, Guinea and Congo, developed the nation's colonial possessions. At one time, Lisbon was the world's greatest commercial center.

Portugal lacked factories, and England and the Netherlands were able to cut off the nation's supply of export goods. This, and 60 years of Spanish rule, produced Portugal's decline as a maritime power.

A Washington Daybook

By JOSEPH W. MARTIN, JR.
Chairman Republican National Committee and Republican Leader in House of Representatives

WASHINGTON—The forthcoming election transcends in importance any issue of purely partisan politics.

It represents a struggle to determine the future course of the nation for possibly generations to come, economic, social and political.

The paramount issue Americans are called upon to decide is whether we shall continue to preserve the individual liberties and the free institutions guaranteed to us under the Constitution, or whether we shall depart yet further from the American principles of self-government along the road of foreign concepts of rule by dictatorship.

The present administration remains steadfast in its adherence to bureaucratic and socialistic trends in spite of its seven years of failure. Through the New Deal system of uncurbed spending and borrowing we have reached an all-time high debt of staggering proportions and continue to face annual deficits of billions, even without having entered upon the thus far abortive effort to accomplish an adequate national defense.

THERE is, furthermore, the issue of departure from the wise precedent and tradition against any individual serving a third term in the Presidency, a tradition upheld by all of our Presidents from Washington down, and which it is now sought to flout.

If this effort be successful, it is fraught with the gravest dangers even to the possibility of a life tenure for the chief executive. What would become of our Democracy under such circumstances and under the influence of present world trends, it is not difficult to foresee.

It is for these, among many other reasons, that I shall support Wendell Willkie and Senator Charles L. McNary for President and Vice-President of the United States and not merely because of the circumstances that I am a Republican.

It is for these same reasons that millions of former Democrats will support Wendell Willkie for the Presidency and will have no part in the third term effort to establish the fiction of the indispensable man or to uphold other fallacies of the New Deal.

I AM and always have been a Republican, but were the situation reversed I should feel as free as do these Democrats, who are putting country above partisanship and patriotism above false hero worship.

We need a businessman in the White House, not only to solve our grave economic problems, brought about by seven years of waste and extravagance, but to insure that adequate defense which all Americans, regardless of party, demand and which alone will serve to safeguard the nation's peace and security.

Wendell Willkie can bring about a coordination of effort on the part of government, business and industry that will insure the marshalling of all our forces toward this end.

He will, furthermore, by the restoration of business confidence, insure the revival and perpetuation of free enterprise and individual initiative which have made this nation industrially great and prosperous and which step alone can bring about the re-employment of both labor and capital.

WE SHALL be assured of an administration responsible to the people, one in which the three branches of government, legislative, judicial and executive, shall each perform the functions allotted to it under the Constitution and in which the executive will not seek to usurp the prerogatives of the other co-equal branches.

With Wendell Willkie in the White House the nation will once more be united in spirit and in purpose to carry out the destiny of a free people.

Chapter 33
Inspection

"IS THAT any way to talk to your sister?" Peter Taylor demanded.

"You bet it is," Don said hotly. "Connie thinks she's the whole show. She doesn't care about anyone but herself; you ought to know that. Look at her, just a gold digger, using her looks. She gets money to run this place out of John by promising to marry him, and then she vamps you, Pedro, so you'll help her succeed with the place. Get next to yourself; don't let her make a damn fool out of you like she has out of John."

Constance heard a thud. Pedro had shot across the room with a single stride, and with the impact of his fist on Don's chin, Don went down.

Peter Taylor straightened and nodded. "Right," he agreed.

"No more," stated Pedro grimly. "talks to any woman like that in this house."

Don was getting up from the floor, holding his jaw. "I'll get you for this, Taylor. And you lay off Donna; we wouldn't have a damned cow-hand in our family for love or money."

Pedro smiled at Don. "You needn't worry," he said. "I wouldn't be in a family like yours for love or money."

Constance stood, stricken numb with shock. She only half saw Peter Taylor drag himself up from his chair, limp to his son and strike him full across the mouth.

Pedro, offering no defense, looked at his father, then bowed slightly to Constance. "I beg your pardon," he said. "I was just thinking of you when I spoke."

And the area about his mouth livid, he left the room.

Don started out, came back to stand before Constance, then with a muffled word of fury left. Peter Taylor sat down heavily, and still Constance stood, silent.

She wanted to tell Peter Taylor that her brother hadn't told the truth. She wanted to tell them she hadn't "vamped" Pedro and played upon his own kindness for help. She wanted to tell him that her loan from John Raskthorne was a business loan upon which she was paying full interest.

She couldn't. The source of reasoning was paralyzed. She couldn't form words and phrases. Slowly she started out of the room. "Forgive me for the trouble I've brought you," she murmured.

Heat came in on the north coast that day. Constance, wandering aimlessly, wanting only to be away from people, stopped near the site of the fire. The alfalfa, too green to burn, had been scorched. The soy bean vines stood wilted.

And Pedro left El Cabrillo that day.

Meg brought the news to Constance, who had asked that her meals be served in her office. She didn't want to sit with her family. John would join her at breakfast, and they would have an occasional luncheon together.

"Don't be anti-social," John had pleaded with her. And he had said, "I don't blame Don for his feeling towards young Taylor. If you don't do something for the sake of the rest of the family and my investment, I'm going to see that he leaves the place."

"You won't have to," Meg had snapped to the doorway. "He's too foolish to be staid around the likes of the folks here. Michael excepted. He's gone. Packed his bags and gone, and old Peter's heart is like to break wide open."

John favored the Irishwoman with a blank stare and left the room.

"And will you tell me what's happened?" demanded Meg.

Constance laughed, a short, harsh laugh. "Too much, Meg. For one thing, I picked up a live wire and I can't let go, even though it kills me."

"And you can't talk to me, but that tray of trash aside and come up to the house. I'll feed you victuals to warm your cheeks, and maybe you can get old Peter to eat."

"One Question"

PETER TAYLOR wouldn't eat alone. Constance didn't know what Meg said to entice him in to eat with her, but she did and urged her on. "We can't get Meg down on us," he warned. "Some day we might come in hungry, and she'd be that mad that she wouldn't feed us."

They sat in the patio later, watching twilight bring relief to El Cabrillo: the soft film of fog, tinted with sunset, steal in over the sea.

"I'll ask you one question only," Taylor said. "Did you promise to marry this Raskthorne man if he lent you the money you needed?"

Constance smiled wanly. "No, Peter Taylor, I didn't. I'll show you my contract. I did borrow on his belief in me, but I gave him security in the form of a promise. If let him sell El Cabrillo if I failed, I am paying interest on the money I borrowed. And—"

"That's enough," warned Taylor heartily, and added, "The young jacks."

The days grew longer and hotter, then shorter and still hotter, as though the heat must be compressed into given hours.

With the absence of Pedro, the ranch personnel grew restless. Pedersen had no control over the old hands. Peter Taylor confessed he'd relaxed the reins to Pedro six years before — "because they'd work for him better," and he could do little.

The new men grew sullen under the open contempt of the ranch. And one night there was a brawl, and Pedersen's best dairyman was rushed to Beachport, stabbed in the back. The other men left in fear of their lives.

Itinerant help, called in, came warily, demanding top pay, for El Cabrillo Rancho was gathering an unsavory reputation.

And as though the unrest were a poison gas, the milk total dropped gradually. Cows were isolated and studied, because it seemed something more than a change of custodians was responsible for the decrease.

Mrs. Pedersen met Constance one day as she brought a fresh crew from Beachport. "It's what I tried to explain to you in San Francisco," the sandy-haired woman said. "It sounds foolish, but harmony is contagious and so is lack of harmony, and even the stupidest bovine has that seventh sense like an antenna that picks things out of the air."

Constance spent more and more time with Peter Taylor, trying to make up in a measure for the absence of his son.

Sometimes it seemed to her that the only pleasant parts of the summer were the spasmodic absences of the family and John. John was joining them in their visits to neighboring ranches; to the south, and to Lake Tahoe.

"There's nothing I can do around here, Chita," he explained the first time. "and I can't just follow you around. It isn't normal."

Constance couldn't suggest that he return east.

"Three years of shadowing would be too much to expect of anyone," she conceded.

"If more than one is necessary," John quickly countered.

Treachery

SHE knew what he meant. That summer had been costly. She didn't see how she could pull through another year like this. She could only hope the family would demand a change of scenery, and perhaps, if they left some sort of discipline could be enforced, and next year's crops might be saved.

Pedersen was speaking of a winter crop . . . if he could find the necessary man-power.

The family was home when the final blow struck. They'd been home a week, restless, irritable, even John was out of sorts.

"I have to get away from them," Constance thought, but delayed going until she had completed her office work.

When she went out to saddle Pancho, the horse was gone, and the stable boy, one of a few who had remained loyal to Constance, was near tears.

"Señor Don," he explained, "he would take him. He saddled him. I didn't, señorita. And he crossed himself, to prove his honesty. I didn't."

Constance felt too tired to be angry. She found a cool spot in the willows, settled in a crotch of high branches and tried to reason. Reason was difficult. It wouldn't surmount the lonely ache in her heart. Like Peter Taylor, she found life without Pedro a sequence of days without motive.

She heard a car drive in and, peering through the leaves, saw the insignia on the door with only a faint shock. The county health officers inspected the ranch at regular intervals.

Scurrying down she met them. They were nice men, friendly, interested, and of late concerned over her venture.

"We'll start with the upper pasture and work down," suggested Doctor Wing.

Constance sat on a fence rail as they went through the procedure. The sun was less warm today, this first of September. In another month the leaves would be turning on the mountain tops; then snow.

She looked down on the pastures, and suddenly she stiffened and looked back at Doctor Wing and his assistants. There was a cow in the herd below which didn't belong there, didn't belong on El Cabrillo. She knew. She knew the markings of every single one of them.

"All right, Miss Cabrillo, shall we go on? Your Guernseys are down a little in weight, but they'll probably pick up with the cool weather."

"Doctor Wing," Constance didn't know why she was troubled, "there's a cow in this next pasture which doesn't belong there. She doesn't belong to me at all. Will you test her first?"

They heard the dry racking cough, as they crossed the stile and Constance saw the quick exchange of glances between the two men. Even before they ran a test they knew and she knew.

A tubercular cow had been planted in the herd.

NEW QUEEN NEEDED FOR BEES' SUCCESS

Queen of the bees is not a lifetime job. County Agent O. C. Tritt says that every colony of bees should be requeened each year with a queen of desirable stock.

Reasons he gives for requeening in the fall are: to build a stronger colony of bees for the winter, to develop a stronger colony the next spring, and to reduce the inclination to swarm the next spring. Colonies requeened earlier in the season or the parent colonies which have swarmed will not need a young queen since they already have one.

Late requeening is best when done toward the middle of the last honey flow. For most of Pennsylvania, this means that requeening can be done successfully between September 1 and October 10, depending upon the section of the state and the time of the first killing frost.

Colonies ordinarily are requeened by placing the shipping cage on top or between the brood frames. This system is fairly satisfactory acceptance under unfavorable conditions.

Complete information on the subject can be obtained from County Agent O. C. Tritt at the Agricultural Extension office in Warren.

During the first six months of 1940 more than $48,289,852 of motor vehicle receipts were collected. This figure represents a gain of $3,018,689 over the same period of 1939.

Accident reports show that one out of seven pedestrians killed in traffic had been drinking, and that one out of nine automobile drivers killed had been drinking.

PLUMBING AND HEATING NEEDS ATTENTION NOW

Definitely and decidedly if you haven't given it any attention as yet, reach for that telephone, call number 24 and let the Hoagvall Hardware, 213 Penna. Ave. E., send a man to your home at once and check over your plumbing and heating requirements for the Fall and Winter.

Most people can struggle along during the warm weather months without much thought to either of these fundamental utilities of the household, whether they are in good repair or not.

But winter and colder weather bring more pointed problems. If the heating plant particularly isn't up to par you are going to have a house alternately cold and hot, causing discomfort and perhaps even illness to many members of the household. Not to mention the fact the chances are extra to one you are burning enough fuel to have had the furnace repaired at no additional cost.

The average individual cannot be held responsible for knowing how to repair a boiler. It takes an expert, someone who has had years of study and practical experience in the field. Here is where you should call on someone like the Hoagvall establishment that is equipped to take care of the repairs to your heating plant.

You're liable to be starting a fire in that furnace at any time now. Don't delay another day. Phone 24 and let the Hoagvall Hardware check over your equipment now—it is so much easier before you have inaugurated your first fire in the furnace.

If you are interested in installing a new furnace, they will be glad to discuss this with you, too, with no obligation on your part to buy one unless you so desire.

Perhaps it would be wise, too, to check over the plumbing and if any repairs are to be made to do it now before colder weather sets in.

Meg brought the news to Constance, who had asked that her meals be served in her office. She didn't want to sit with her family. John would join her at breakfast, and they would have an occasional luncheon together.

"Don't be anti-social," John had pleaded with her, and he had said, "I don't blame Don for his feeling towards young Taylor. If you don't do something, for the sake of the rest of the family and my investment, I'm going to see that he leaves the place."

"You won't have to," Meg had snapped from the doorway. "He's too tame to be stayin' around the likes of the folks here. Michael excepted. He's gone. Packed his bags and gone, and old Peter's heart is like to break wide open."

John favored the Irishwomen with a blank stare and left the room.

"And will you tell me what's happened?" demanded Meg.

Constance laughed, a short, harsh laugh. "Too much, Meg. For one thing, I picked up a live wire, and I can't let go, even though it kills me."

"If you can't talk to me, put that tray o' trash aside and come up to the house. I'll feed you victuals to warm your cheeks, and mayhaps you can get old Pedro to eat."

"One Question"

PETER TAYLOR wouldn't eat alone. Constance didn't know what Meg said to entice him to eat with her, but she did and would her on. "We can't get Meg down on us," he warned. "Some day we might come in hungry, and she'd be that mad that she wouldn't feed us."

They sat in the patio later, watching twilight bring relief to El Cabrillo; the soft film of fog tinted with sunset, steal in over the sea.

"I'll ask you one question only," Taylor said. "Did you promise to marry this Raskthorne man if he lent you the money you need?"

Constance smiled weakly. "No, Peter Taylor didn't. I'll show you my contract, I did borrow on his belief in me, but I gave him security in the written promise to let him sell El Cabrillo if I failed. I am paying interest on the money I borrowed. And—"

"That's enough," warned Taylor heartily, and added, "The young jackass."

The days grew longer and hotter, then shorter and still hotter, as though the heat must be compressed into given hours.

With the absence of Pedro, the ranch personnel grew restless. Pedersen had no control over the old hands. Peter Taylor confessed he'd relaxed the reins to Pedro six years before—"because they'd work for him better," and he could do little.

The new men grew sullen under the open contempt of the old ones. And one night there was a brawl and Pedersen's best dairyman was rushed to Beachport, stabbed in the back. The other men left in fear of their lives.

Itinerant help, called in, came warily, demanding top pay, for El Cabrillo Rancho was gathering an unsavory reputation.

And as though the unrest were a poison gas, the milk total dropped gradually. Cows were isolated and studied, because it seemed something more than a change of custodians was responsible for the decrease.

Mrs. Pedersen met Constance one day as she brought a fresh crew from Beachport. "It's what I tried to explain to you in San Francisco," the sandy-haired woman said. "It sounds foolish, but harmony is contagious and so is lack of harmony, and even the stupidest bovine needs the seventh sense like an antenna that picks things out of the air."

Constance spent more and more time with Peter Taylor, trying to make up in a measure for the absence of his son.

Sometimes it seemed to her that the only pleasant parts of the summer were the sporadic absences of the family and John. John was joining them in their visits to neighboring ranches; to the south, and to Lake Tahoe.

"There's nothing I can do around here, Chita," he explained the first time "and I can't just follow you around. It isn't normal."

Constance couldn't suggest that he return east.

"Three years of shadowing would be too much to expect of anyone," she conceded.

"If more than one is necessary," John quickly countered.

Treachery

She knew what he meant. That summer had been costly. She didn't see how she could pull through another year like this. She could only hope the family would demand a change of scenery and perhaps, if they left some sort of discipline could be enforced, and next year's crops might be saved.

Pedersen was speaking of a winter crop . . . he could find the necessary man-power.

The family was home when the final blow struck. They'd been home a week, restless, irritable, even John was out of sorts.

"I have to get away from them," Constance thought, but delayed going until she had completed her office work.

When she went out to saddle Pancho, the horse was gone, and the stable boy, one of a few who had remained loyal to Constance, was gone.

"Constance," he explained, "he would take him. He saddled him, I didn't, señorita. And he crossed himself to prove his honesty. 'I didn't!'"

Constance felt too tired to be angry. She found a cool spot in the willows, settled in a crotch of high branches and tried to reason. Reason was difficult. It wouldn't surmount the lonely ache in her heart. Like Peter Taylor, she found life without Pedro a sequence of days without motive.

She heard a car drive in and, peering through the leaves, saw the insignia on the door with only a faint shock. The county health officers inspected the ranch at regular intervals.

Constance sat on a fence rail as they went through the procedure. The sun was less warm today. This first of September. In another month the leaves would be turning on the mountain tops; then snow.

She looked down on the pastures, and suddenly she stiffened and looked back at Doctor Wing and his assistants. There was a cow in the herd below which didn't belong there, didn't belong on El Cabrillo. She knew. She knew the markings of every single one of them.

"All right, Miss Cabrillo, shall we go on? Your Guernseys are down a little in weight, but they'll probably pick up with the cool weather."

"Doctor Wing," Constance didn't know where she was troubled. "There's a cow in this next pasture which doesn't belong there. She doesn't belong to me at all. Will you test her first?"

They heard the dry racking cough, as they crossed the stile and Constance saw the quick exchange of glances between the two men. Even before they ran a test they knew and she knew.

A tubercular cow had been planted in the herd.

NEW QUEEN NEEDED FOR BEES' SUCCESS

Queen of the bees is not a lifetime job. County Agent O. C. Tritt says that every colony of bees should be requeened each year with a queen of desirable stock.

Reasons he gives for requeening in the fall are: to build a stronger colony for the winter; to develop a stronger colony the next spring; and to reduce the inclination to swarm the next spring. Colonies requeened earlier in the season or the parent colonies which have swarmed will not need a young queen since they already have one.

Late requeening is best when done toward the middle of the last honey flow. For most of Pennsylvania, this means that requeening can be done successfully between September 1 and October 10, depending upon the section of the state and the time of the first killing frost.

Colonies ordinarily are requeened by placing the shipping cage on top or between the brood frames. This system is fairly satisfactory acceptance under unfavorable conditions.

Complete information on the subject can be obtained from County Agent O. C. Tritt at the Agricultural Extension office in Warren.

During the first six months of 1940 more than $48,289.852 of motor vehicle receipts were collected. This figure represents a gain of $3,618,589 over the same period of 1939.

Accident reports show that one out of seven pedestrians killed in traffic had been drinking, and that one out of nine automobile drivers killed had been drinking.

2. Astronomical prices for stage hits aren't routine any more. There's been nothing like the $255,000 RKO paid for a stage comedy two years ago. (a) What was the comedy? (b) What pioneer producer-director paid $175,000 for a 1920 stage hit about a New England girl? (c) What was the play?
3. If you met May Whitty, the English character actress, would you address her properly as (a) Hi, kid! (b) Dame May, (c) Miss Whitty or (d) Howdy, Dame?
4. Can you identify the still prominent pioneer movie producer, who once played cornet and was the only white man in the old Royal Hawaiian Band at Honolulu? (Tip: He's making a movie about an American World war hero.)
5. Harold Lloyd is asking a reduced assessment on his Beverly Hills estate because (a) He's now a producer, (b) He's a Shriner, (c) He built when taxes were lower, now finds them a burden, (d) He's just ornery. Which?

PLUMBING AND HEATING NEEDS ATTENTION NOW

Definitely and decidedly if you haven't given it any attention as yet, reach for that telephone, call number 24 and let the Hoagvall Hardware, 213 Penna. Ave. E., send a man to your home at once and check over your plumbing and heating requirements for the Fall and Winter.

Most people can struggle along during the warm weather months without much thought to either of these fundamental utilities of the household, whether they are in good repair or not.

But winter and colder weather bring more pointed problems. If the heating plant particularly isn't up to par you are going to have a house alternately cold and hot, causing discomfort and perhaps even illness to many members of the household. Not to mention the fact the chances are ten to one you are burning enough extra coal to have had the furnace repaired at no additional cost.

The average individual cannot be held responsible for knowing how to repair a boiler. It takes an expert, someone who has had years of study and practical experience in the field. Here is where you should call on someone like the Hoagvall establishment that is equipped to take care of the repairs to your heating plant.

You're liable to be starting a fire in that furnace at any time now. Don't delay another day. Phone 24 and let the Hoagvall Hardware check over your equipment now—it is so much easier before you have inaugurated your first fire in the furnace.

If you are interested in installing a new furnace, they will be glad to discuss this with you, too, with no obligation on your part to buy one unless you so desire.

Perhaps it would be wise, too, to check over the plumbing and if any repairs are to be made to do it now before colder weather sets in.

Mrs. Hunter then gave a report on the leadership meeting held September 3. Following this, the troop was reorganized and a senior patrol formed. Assistant leaders for this group are Mrs. Ruth Solinger, Mrs. Ann McManus and Miss Jeanette Valentine.

All girls under senior Scout age formed a patrol, with Miss Frances Ruland, Mrs. Mildred Washburn, Miss Helen Olson and Miss "Billie" Pees as assistant leaders. Miss Pees will have completed her seventh year in Scouting in March, holds a first class Scout ranking and has had four years of perfect attendance. It was decided that she would substitute for Miss Jeanette Valentine and attend leadership training class.

Patrols then went to their newly assigned rooms to elect officers for the year, while Mrs. Hunter met with the committee to outline work for the troop. Following these meetings, Mrs. Pees, committee chairman, asked that all Scouts bring their handcraft to the third troop meeting for inspection; also that a court of award would be held the first part of February. The committee named dates when it would like to entertain the leaders of the county, the four-hour training talk by Mrs. Althea Correll and another county Scout troop.

It was reported the troop will meet October 2 for a winter roast. The meeting was closed by singing "The Evening Song" and renewing of the Girl Scout oath.

Buffalo Lecturer Giving Longstreet Novel For Survey

Officers of the Zonta Club announce that Mrs. Ethel Holmes Munsey, lecturer to be presented in the Beatty school auditorium on Thursday night, has chosen "Decade" as the theme of her dramatic book survey.

"Decade," a novel by Stephen Longstreet, is a story of the years 1929-1939 in our own social and economic life. A clever satire, the book makes one laugh one moment and think deeply the next, and its humor and philosophy is a delightful American blend. It is included among the "must" books for the year.

Mrs. Munsey has been a resident of Buffalo, N. Y., for the past 20 years and is identified with national patriotic organizations, is newly elected president of the western New York branch of the League of American Pen Women, a member of the Twentieth Century Club and the Town Club of Buffalo.

She is also chairman of the inter-city committee and corresponding secretary of the Zonta Club of Buffalo and Erie county, the honorary president of the Current Events Club of Buffalo and regional sponsor for the international sorority, Sigma Phi Gamma.

She has established a reputation for her "personalized" lectures, wherein the subject is developed according to the individual organization's interest and program, and presented in an interesting and intriguing manner.

Tickets for Mrs. Munsey's lecture here have been placed on sale at Wendelboe's and the Jean Carol Hat Shop and are available from any member of the club.

TRI-STATE CHAMPS HANDED 21-7 SETBACK BY RED JACKETS

Kane Wolves Nose Out Dragons, 6-0

Dazzling Offensive And Strong Line Is Flashed By Locals

Springdale A. C. champion of the Tri-State Semi-Pro Football Conference and claimant to the national sandlot title, moved in on Russell Field yesterday afternoon to meet Warren's new Red Jackets, and moved right back to the Pittsburgh area a little later in the afternoon on the short end of a 21-7 count.

Springdale was everything that had been advertised, but the Red Jackets proved to be twice the team that even the most optimistic had dared hope. Art McKeehan, former Dragon back, Frankie Martines, ex-Jamestown High Linebacker, and Stan Rog, of Titusville, sparked a fine running attack. McKeehan in particular showing a shiftiness that picked up plenty of ground.

The line lived up to advance hope, and it would be grossly unfair to point to any individual who performed better than another. Harry Rosequist was moved into the backfield and did an exceptional job in punting and place-kicking, making good on all three points after touchdown.

After a scoreless first half in which honors were about even, the Jackets failed to capitalize on the only bad kick of the ball game, when Jimmy Howells' punt from his own 18 went out to the 37 where Check grabbed it and returned three yards. The locals went to the 24 for a first down, but there the visitors stiffened and finally took possession. After coming back out to the 37 Howells punted to the Warren 38.

Rosequist kicked back, Howells taking the ball on his one-yard line. Rossman was down fast and dropped him on the twelve. The Springdale quarterback elected to cross up the Jackets with a pass on first down, which Harold Sedon intercepted on the 20 and returned to the 16. Martines tried the line with no result, and Check threw a pass to Bob Main who grabbed it in the end zone for the opening score.

Artie Amann and McKeehan were doubly responsible for the second score. After the kickoff following the touchdown, Lellis fumbled and Artie recovered on the Springdale 20. Henne, another Titusville newcomer and a speed king, got five at right and Harold Sedon was stopped at the line and then lost four on a reverse. Check then chucked a pass which Sedon took on the ten for a first down.

Henne lost five when the Springdale right end broke through and then Sedon threw a pass, intended for Main, which Howells batted directly into Amann's arms on the four-yard line. Henne got two but McKeehan was stopped and Springdale took the ball on their own one. Howells punted to McKeehan who ran the ball from the 42 back to the 20. McKeehan, Rosequist and Rog picked up enough for a first down on the 8, and Springdale drew a five-yard assessment for two many times out. In two plays McKeehan crossed the line.

Rosequist scored the final Warren touchdown a few plays after the next kickoff when he intercepted Sturges' pass on the Springdale 30 yard line and hiked over the line.

Two long passes, one from Lafferty to Bill Howells of 46 yards and a 30-yard aerial from Sturges to the same receiver, gave the visitors their lone score in the last minute of play, the latter toss being for the score. Bill Howells placekicked the point.

The crowd, which was of fair proportions in the light of the increased admission price for the opening game, gave the Jackets an enthusiastic reception, and almost a record gate is anticipated for the pre-season game next Sunday against the Creighton Tigers. Popular prices will prevail.

McKeehan, Rosequist and Rog picked up enough for a first down on the 8, and Springdale drew a five-yard assessment for two many times out. In two plays McKeehan crossed the line.

Rosequist scored the final Warren touchdown a few plays after the next kickoff when he intercepted Sturges' pass on the Springdale 30 yard line and hiked over the line.

Two long passes, one from Lafferty to Bill Howells of 46 yards and a 30-yard aerial from Sturges to the same receiver, gave the visitors their lone score in the last minute of play, the latter toss being for the score. Bill Howells placekicked the point.

The crowd, which was of fair proportions in the light of the increased admission price for the opening game, gave the Jackets an enthusiastic reception, and almost a record gate is anticipated for the pre-season game next Sunday against the Creighton Tigers. Popular prices will prevail.

Rosequist kicked back, Howells taking the ball on his one-yard line. Rossman was down fast and dropped him on the twelve. The Springdale quarterback elected to cross up the Jackets with a pass on first down, which Harold Sedon intercepted on the 20 and returned to the 16. Martines tried the line with no result, and Check threw a pass to Bob Main who grabbed it in the end zone for the opening score.

Artie Amann and McKeehan were doubly responsible for the second score. After the kickoff following the touchdown, Lellis fumbled and Artie recovered on the Springdale 20. Henne, another Titusville newcomer and a speed king, got five at right and Harold Sedon was stopped at the line and then lost four on a reverse. Check then chucked a pass which Sedon took on the ten for a first down.

Henne lost five when the Springdale right end broke through and then Sedon threw a pass, intended for Main, which Howells batted directly into Amann's arms on the four-yard line. Henne got two but McKeehan was stopped and Springdale took the ball on their own one. Howells punted to McKeehan who ran the ball from the 42 back to the 20. McKeehan, Rosequist and Rog picked up enough for a first down on the 8, and Springdale drew a five-yard assessment for two many times out. In two plays McKeehan crossed the line.

Rosequist scored the final Warren touchdown a few plays after the next kickoff when he intercepted Sturges' pass on the Springdale 30 yard line and hiked over the line.

Kane High certainly knows a good thing when it sees it—rather, when it has it. About all that we could see on the Wolf grid eleven was one Mr. William Hillman, but one boy like that would be just about plenty for almost any team in the district. He is a big lad (five feet, eleven and weighs 195) but the pressure that is put on him would crush the average man. He does all of the punting and the passing and, in the Warren game, carried the ball 32 times out of the 42 rushing plays made by the Red and Blue. Out of the remaining ten scrimmage plays, Hillman took the ball five times from center for a reverse pass to another back. Kane netted 163 yards in rushing, you will note by the statistics, and of that forward motion Big William collected 156 yards for an average of 4.8 a try. And in case we forgot to mention it, he plays safety man and does all of the punt returning. Quite a man!

Naturally, Hillman was the standout from the spectator point of view, but to those who know the physical structures of the Dragon gridsters, the courage of our boys was the highlight. It takes no little fortitude for anyone to get in front of 190 pounds of ten-second man, moving with a beautiful high-knee action, but even though they were miles beside him, the Dragons showed no hesitation in clenching with Hillman when they could get close to him. Just how much the locals were handicapped by the loss of four regulars. To Jim Harding and George Niederer, who were in the starting line, and the boys who came in to relieve them must go a lion's share of the credit for stopping Hillman as often as he was halted. But we have another pat on the back for a couple of lads who were men enough to throw away certain glory for the sake of honesty.

And as for yesterday's game—well, you couldn't ask for anything sweeter. For the doubters who waited until next Sunday when they will have had reports on the first game we have nothing but sympathy. It was a real ball game; the new Jackets demonstrated that they are even better than last year's clubs. McKeehan, Martines, Rog & Co. make up a fast, smart backfield and have plenty of razzle dazzle at their finger tips. That the fans liked the new style of more open play was attested by the constant yelling and applause. Newcomers Rossman and Pausoletti put their shoulders into the gaps in the line, and we'll take that forward wall against any that has ever represented this city. Even the weather man was obliging. The boys, by the way, are grateful to the Marconi Club for providing dressing rooms for the Jackets as well as the visiting firemen. Next week, Creighton.

There were a good many games over the past week-end with a dozen or so "major" teams rolling up big scores. But next Friday and Saturday, there are six scheduled contests that are right at the top of the "big game" division, and as many more important sectional and conference clashes.

Friday night's headliner is U C L. A. against Southern Methodist at Los Angeles.

Saturday's biggest games are inter-sectional Boston College-Tulane at New Orleans, Pittsburgh-Ohio State at Columbus, Washington-Minnesota at Minneapolis, Michigan-California at Berkeley and Colorado-Texas at Austin. These will be the first games for each team, except for Boston College, which walloped Centie, 40-0 last Saturday.

Not far behind in the rankings are Washington State-Southern California, Iowa State-DePaul (Friday), and a trio of conference games in the south. Duke, Southern Conference champion, opens against V. M. I., 23-0, winner over Roanoke last week. North Carolina, usually the Blue Devils' leading rival, clashes with Wake Forest. Both won last Saturday's games, 36-6 over Appalachian and 79-0 over William Jewell, respectively. North Carolina State, which upset William and Mary, 16-0, Friday in the first Southern Conference tilt, meets Davidson, 19-7 winner over Rollins.

In the Southeastern Conference, Louisiana State (13-7) against Louisiana Tech) plays Mississippi (17-0 against Union U.), and Florida meets Mississippi State.

The East can't offer much more than warm-ups unless it's Navy vs. William and Mary.

"Big Bill" Is Whole Show As Wolves Top Warren High Eleven

Kane High School's one-man gang, Big Bill Hillman, who does everything for the Wolves but carry the water, proved just as low much for Warren's waiting Dragons Saturday afternoon on the hillytop. The Red and Blue chalking up its first win since 1931 over the locals, 6 to 0.

Carrying the ball nearly every time Kane made an offensive thrust, doing all of the kicking and tussling what few passes were used, Hillman was the whole show and dimaxed his great display of inspired football by jaunting 27 yards around right end early in the third quarter for the only score of the game.

With four regular starters out of action because of violation of the training rules, the Dragons were considerably the first half they pushed Kane's big eleven all over the field and twice were inside the ten-yard line. Once they were held for downs by a suddenly stiffened Kane defense and on the other occasion, Floyd Landers fumbled on the five-yard line, Kane recovering.

The entire first half was played in a downpour which made a quagmire of the field and made holding the ball a feat. A dozen fumbles were registered during the encounter, with the Wolves dropping on a fair share of theirs and the Dragons, too, at critical times.

After Hillman had carried the ball from his own 32 to the Warren 42, without help, immediately after the first kickoff, "Stung" Brown fell on Vito's fumble of a reverse play on the Warren 48, and the Dragons took possession. After failing to gain Hillman booted to Hillman on the Kane 25, and when the Wolves were penalized 15 yards for clipping, ball went back to the 12. Hillman at once ran around left end to the 27 to get out of danger, but there the Warren line held, and Bill booted out of bounds on the Warren 40.

Then the Dragons cut loose. Zahranski, who replaced "Spinner" Johnson at fullback, stepped 15 yards around right end to the Kane 42. Tamburine picked up four at center and Landers skirted the left flank for a first down on the 28. Tamburine's pass to Landers was good for 16 yards and a first down on the 12, but here the Wolf line held for downs, and Kane took the ball on its own nine-yard line.

After Hillman picked up two yards on three plays, he booted to the Warren 44 and again the Dragons

TIGERS TRIPPED CHICAGO BEARS BY INDIANS AS CHASE PACKERS; YANKS MOVE UP GIANTS HUMBLD

BY BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Like the old-time movie serials that used to end each just after the hero had fallen into the crocodile pond, the American League pennant race stops abruptly today just when it almost had the war news shoved off the front page.

After almost everybody had given up on the Yankees ever being able to make it five pennants in a row, and then had decided the hard-hitting Detroit Tigers were too tough Cleveland yesterday smashed out a 10-5 win in the third game of their series at Detroit and the Yankees beat Boston 6-3, to make the race a three-way scramble again. And now, with everybody on edge, they all take the day off!

Resuming play Tuesday, the Tigers have a two-game series with the always troublesome Chicago White Sox, and the Indians meet the Browns in a pair. All of which means the pennant chase probably will not be decided until that three-game series starting Friday between the Tigers and the Indians at Cleveland.

After losing the first two games of the "crocodile" series, the Indian victory yesterday, Bobby Feller's 27th of the year, left the pennant picture looking like this:

	W.	L.	Pct.	games behind
Detroit	87	62	.584	-
Cleveland	86	63	.577	1
New York	82	64	.562	3 1/2

The Yanks looked to admit they'd been kept within mathematical shouting distance of the leaders by tromping Boston.

St. Hudson and Ken Chase turned in two fine pitching performances to hand the Washington Senators a pair of victories over the Athletics, 5-4 and 5-2, and old Ted Lyons pitched the White Sox to a 10-0 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

(From Page One)

Rounding a sharp curve in the mountain dark, the car plunged over a 40-foot embankment. Man and child were unhurt, and Muhlbroich climbed up to the road and at gunpoint took the car of the next passerby, William Gianatasio, of Sacramento.

Transferring the child and his stock of canned goods and ammunition to the new vehicle, Muhlbroich roared on—until a few hours later he lost his way.

Then he met Wetzel, taking a log truck to his Ono ranch mill. "How in the hell do I get out of here?" he asked.

Wetzel, the San Francisco Chronicle said in a copyright story, had already noted the fair-haired child, clad only in a sunsuit, in the car.

The lumberman, a former Washington State College football player and wrestler, gave directions, then followed Muhlbroich until he stopped for further instructions. Wetzel stepped to the road, moved in close and grunted, "How about that baby?"

The suspected kidnaper drew a revolver and Wetzel dived for him. They rolled briefly in a welter of flying fists, dust and weapons.

Ellis Wood, a lumberjack, arrived in time to help Wetzel take a second revolver from Muhlbroich—who had a holster under each arm—and bind him with stout cord.

The woodmen drove to River Pine with the wide-eyed child and sullen captive. Wetzel telephoned authorities, while Marc Jr., whose last food had been pineapple juice the night before—was fed and warmed at Frank Breidenbach's general store. For three hours Muhlbroich lay trussed on the floor of the barbershop next door, under the muzzles of rifles in the hands of watchful River Pine folk, while Marc played with the Breidenbach's spaniel.

A telephone call to the parents returned grief into widest delight. The count was at prayer in a nearby chapel at the time, but in a few moments armloads of champagne were being carried into the house.

DEMOCRATS IN LARGE MEETING AT SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, Sept. 23.—A meeting and rally of Sheffield township Democrats and friends held Friday evening in the local Democratic headquarters under the auspices of the Sheffield Democratic Club attracted a capacity crowd and was easily the most enthusiastic and successful event of the kind held here in some time.

The large assemblage heard with much interest the remarks of the two speakers of the evening—Attorney C. Henry Nicholson, of Warren, county Democratic chairman and candidate for member of the general assembly and Harry Jones.

Attorney John Boland Jr., of Sharon, who was to have been the principal speaker, was unable to attend because of another speaking engagement. A letter from him expressing his regret at being unable to attend and containing a promise to appear in Sheffield later, was read.

A most enjoyable program of music was presented during the evening. The North Warren Troubadours, an instrumental group consisting of three young ladies and a boy, played several selections. Vocal offerings by a trio consisting of Louise Anderson, Marjorie Carlson and Jeanne Brainer Haranopoulos were "Sierra Sue" and "In a Little Old Garden." Mary Konestoba was the accompanist. A violin solo, "Allegro Brillant", and encore, "Musical Maestro", was played by Mary Pat O'Connor, with Josephine Okerberg as accompanist.

The program was in charge of Michael Papavero, treasurer of the local club and secretary of the county committee.

Refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake and coffee were served after the formal program had been concluded. Mrs. Carl J. Anderson was chairman of the refreshments committee.

CANDIDATES TO OPEN CAMPAIGN IN THE SECTION

The three candidates on the Republican state ticket will make their first campaign appearance in this section of Pennsylvania tomorrow, with meetings in Forest county and McKean county.

It had been the intention of the candidates to include a visit to Warren, but because of the preoccupation of Warren Republican leaders and workers with the drive for registration, the Warren visit was deferred until a later date.

Headed by Jay Cooke, candidate for the United States senate; James F. Malone, Jr., of Pittsburgh, candidate for state treasurer, and State Senator Frederick T. Gelder, candidate for auditor general, the campaign party will arrive at Tionesta at 10 o'clock standard time.

From Tionesta, they will go to Endeavor, where a rally of Forest county voters and political workers will hear each candidate make a short, informal address.

At the conclusion of the Endeavor meeting, McKean County Chairman James Connolly, of Ludlow, will accompany the party on a whirlwind tour through that county with stops at Smethport and nearby communities.

The candidates will meet voters and workers throughout the county, and then proceed to the Emery Hotel in Bradford, where they will be guests at a dinner.

HUNTER PLACED ON PAROLE IN SHOOTING CASE

Cecil D. Blair, 23, of Clintonville, was found guilty of shooting a human in mistake for game by a Forest county jury last Friday afternoon. Judge D. U. Arrid, of Warren, who presided at the court session, sentenced Blair to pay $50 costs, placed him on parole for two years, ordered his hunting license suspended for ten years and ordered him to pay $300 to the personal representative of the deceased's family.

Blair was charged with firing the shot which fatally injured William Hines, 15, also of Clintonville, and a member of the same hunting party. Blair, the first to reach the injured youth, summoned other members of the hunting party, including the boy's father, Stewart Himes. They brought him to the Kane Summit Hospital, where he died a few hours later, the first fatality of the big game season in this section, which took a toll of at least three lives and seriously wounded several others.

A coroner's jury found that the youth died from effects of a bullet wound fired by an unknown hunter. At that time testimony indicated that the boy had been shot twice, once through the wrist and the second through his hip, ranging upward into the lower abdomen. Investigation later, headed by Sergeant John Mullaney, of the Kane sub-station of State Police, disclosed one shot had been fired and immediate efforts were being made to match the slug taken from the body of the youth with guns owned by nimrods in that section.

It was while officers were picking up the guns that Blair confessed shooting Himes in mistake for a deer. He was arraigned on the game law charge and later released under bail. The case, scheduled for early this year in Forest county court, was delayed by change of pleas and opened Wednesday in the term which was concluded Saturday afternoon.

The case marked the first court trial in this area on the charge of shooting a human in mistake for game which was incorporated in the state game laws a few years ago.

The court session was concluded with a case against Daniel Meal, of Marienville, charged with larceny of oil lease property. Meal was apprehended by State Trooper Andrew Hichenko, of Kane, for the theft which occurred in Hove township, Forest county. Meal pleaded nolle contendere and was paroled for two years.

McDonald, of Ridgway, district commander of the 28th district.

Among other matters of importance for discussion this evening will be the Legion's participation in and observance of Armistice Day. It is expected that details of the various events to be held that day will be worked out by a committee to be appointed by the newly elected commander. Window shopping night Wednesday! 9-23-24

At the final session of the Oil Creek Baptist Association, held Saturday afternoon, F. H. Hetrick, of Warren, was elected vice-moderator for the year 1940-1941, and Mrs. Alice E. Sill, of Warren, was re-elected clerk.

The Rev. E. F. Thorne, of Oil City, was elected moderator and A. B. Cody, of Bradford, was again named treasurer.

Others elected include the following: Board of trustees—R. A. Blair, W. H. Branch and J. H. Hicks, all of Erie; Almon Bloomquist, of Kane; F. S. Kitchell, Oil City; Albert Haslett, North East; A. B. Cody, Bradford, and B. H. Donovan, Warren. Chairman of committee on ordination, Rev. G. E. Dupree, of Union City. Chairman of missionary committee, Rev. C. C. Rich, of Erie. Chairman of committee on evangelism, Rev. C. E. Downing, of Erie. Chairman of committee on education and young people's work, Rev. J. A. Davison, Warren.

The Rev. C. A. Fuller was named trustee for Camp Corby. Directors of the Baptist Home and Orphanage are Rev. H. A. Young, Kane; Rev. G. E. Dupree, Union City; Rev. C. A. Fuller, Centreville, and Mrs. R. W. Reynolds, Hydetown. The Rev. W. T. Vandever, pastor of First church, Erie, was named successor to the late Dr. H. R. MacMillan, of Bradford, as a member of the state board of managers from the Oil Creek association, and F. S. Kitchell was elected a member of the state nominating committee, representing the association.

Delegates from the various churches, including the young people's division, numbered about 300.

The Saturday evening joint banquet for adult delegates and young people was featured by a musical program and humorous sketches presented by the B. Y. P. U. of Bradford. The evening devotional period in the auditorium was under the auspices of the B. Y. P. U., of Wayne Park church, Erie. Dr. Roy B. Deer, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Baptist Convention, gave a challenging message to the young people at the eight o'clock service on the subject, "The Curse of Acrophobia," stressing the fact that young people today are too much inclined to fear "the high road" and tread the "low road," not using their God-given powers to the full extent of their privilege and power.

During the day, messages full of inspiration and profit were given by state leaders and pastors of the association. The Rev. H. C. Loughhead, rural work director of the Pennsylvania Baptist Convention, spoke during the missionary hour. Also pastors and leaders from the smaller churches in the association gave interesting reports of their accomplishments in spite of many rural problems such as bad roads, widely scattered membership and limited facilities which confront many of these smaller churches.

Resolutions adopted at the Saturday afternoon session included appreciation to the local press for their courtesy in granting adequate space for publicity; to the association treasury, A. B. Cody, who has served so efficiently in that office for twenty years; to Mrs. Alice E. Sill, clerk, who has served in that capacity for eighteen years past; to the local church for the hospitality extended.

The following resolutions with regard to temperance, education and war were given unanimous endorsement:

"Resolved that as the public is looking to the church for moral and temperance leadership, we urge that our people inaugurate an extensive educational program in our churches and church schools to this end; and

Whereas, the governments of European and Asiatic nations have failed to learn the futility of war, and in view of the disturbing political atmosphere in our own nation, we urge the steadfast adherence of our people to a policy of national and international peace."

ZONE LAWYERS TO TALK TAXES NEXT SATURDAY

Taxes may be an unpopular subject to the average citizen, but not to the lawyers of northwestern Pennsylvania, judging from the interest manifested by them in the coming Institute on Tax Law which is to be held at the Riverside Hotel, Cambridge Springs on September 28th. The law of income taxes, estate taxes, corporation taxes, personal property taxes, and even the proposed Federal Profits Tax Act (if enacted by that date) will receive their attention at the Institute.

Leading the speakers is W. A. Siefert, Esq., of Pittsburgh, a member of the law firm of Reed, Smith, Shaw and McClay, and one of the outstanding authorities on tax law in Pennsylvania. He will be assisted by W. W. Booth, A. G. Wallerstedt, R. L. Kirkpatrick, J. G. Robinson, T. P. Johnson, W. D. Wall and E. C. McHugh, all of Pittsburgh, who are associated with him in handling the tax matters in some phase of tax law or practice. The speakers will conduct an open forum on tax law following the addresses.

The Institute, which is held annually under the auspices of Zone Seven of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, aims to help practicing lawyers to keep abreast of the latest developments of some branch of the law.

Following the Institute, the an-

COUNTY RELIEF ROLLS CONTINUE THEIR DECLINE

The downward trend in direct relief rolls in Warren county continued during the week ending September 14 when a net decrease of 15 cases was reported, according to Howard L. Russell, state secretary of public assistance. This was offset, however, by the fact that six persons obtained private employment, seven received WPA jobs and seven were taken from the direct rolls for other reasons. Cost of relief in the county during the week was $947.43.

Warren county's trend followed that throughout the state, where a net drop of 4,079 cases was reported during the week, bringing the state total down to 152,362 cases, representing 442,323 persons. This was a net decline of some 120,000 cases from the same week in 1939. Cost of relief in the state for the week was $1,023,634.50.

Following are the figures for some nearby counties:

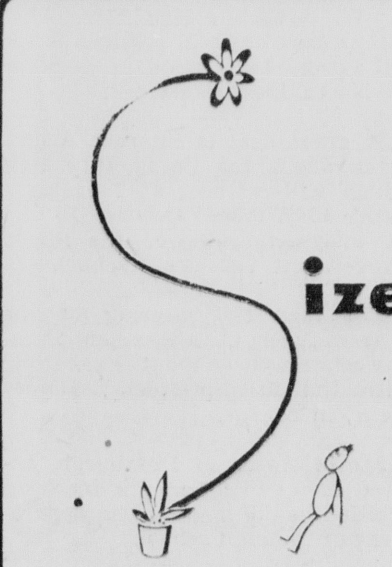

Crawford—Cases, 494; decrease, 2; cost, $2,760.70.
Clarion—Cases, 276; decrease, 7; cost, $1,651.90.
Elk—Cases, 230; decrease, 2; cost, $1,281.19.

TRI-STATE CHAMPS HANDED 21-7 SETBACK BY RED JACKETS

Dazzling Offensive And Strong Line Is Flashed By Locals

Springdale A. C., champion of the Tri-State Semi-Pro Football Conference and claimant to the national sandlot title, moved in on Russell Field yesterday afternoon to meet Warren's new Red Jackets, and moved right back to the Pittsburgh area a little later in the afternoon on the short end of a 21-7 count.

Springdale was everything that had been advertised, but the Red Jackets proved to be twice the team that the most optimistic had dared hope. Art McKeehan, former Dragon back, Frankie Martinez, ex-Jamestown High luminary, and Stan Rog, of Titusville, sparked a fine running attack, McKeehan in particular showing a shiftness that picked up plenty of ground.

The line lived up to advance hope, and it would be grossly unfair to point to any individual who performed better than another. Harry Rosequist was moved into the backfield and did an exceptional job in punting and place-kicking, making good on all three points after touchdown. After a scoreless first half in which honors were about even, the Jackets failed to capitalize on the only bad kick of the ball game, when Jimmy Howells' punt from his own 18 went out to the 37 where Check grabbed it and returned three yards. The locals went to the 24 for a first down, but there the visitors stiffened and finally took possession. After coming back out to the 37, Howells punted to the Warren 38.

Rosequist kicked back, Howells taking the ball on his one-yard line. Rossman was down fast and dropped him on the twelve. The Springdale quarterback elected to cross up the Jackets with a pass on first down, which Harold Sedon intercepted on the 20 and returned to the 16; Martinez tried the line with no result, and Check threw a pass to Bob Main who grabbed it in the end zone for the opening score.

Artie Amann and McKeehan were doubly responsible for the second score. After the kickoff following the touchdown, Lellis tumbled and Artie recovered on the Springdale 20. Henne, another Titusville newcomer and a speed king, got five at right end, Harold Sedon was stopped at the line and then lost four on a reverse. Check then chucked a pass which Sedon took on the ten for a first down. Henne lost five when the Springdale right end broke through and then Sedon threw a pass intended for Main, which Howells batted directly into Amann's arms on the four-yard line. Henne got two but McKeehan was stopped and Springdale took the ball on their own one. Howells punted to McKeehan who ran the ball from the 42 back to the 20. McKeehan, Rosequist and Rog picked up enough for a first down on the 8, and Springdale drew a five-yard assessment for two many times out. In two plays McKeehan crossed the line.

Rosequist scored the final Warren touchdown a few plays after the next kickoff when he intercepted Sturges' pass on the Springdale 30 yard line and hiked over the line.

Two long passes, one from Lafferty to Bill Howells of 46 yards and a 30-yard aerial from Sturges to the same receiver, gave the visitors their lone score in the last minute of play, the latter toss being for the score. Bill Howells placekicked the point.

The crowd, which was of fair proportions in the light of the increased admission price for the opening game, gave the Jackets an enthusiastic reception, and almost a record gate is anticipated for the pros' second game next Sunday against the Creighton Tigers. Popular prices will prevail.

Kane High certainly knows a good thing when it sees it—rather, when it has it. About all that we could see on the Wolf grid was just about one Mr. William Hillman, but one boy like that would be just about plenty for almost any team in the district. He is a big lad (five feet, eleven and weighs 185) but the pressure that is put on him would crush the average man. He does all of the punting and passing and, in the Warren game, carried the ball 32 times out of the 42 rushing plays made by the Red and Blue. Out of the remaining ten scrimmage plays, Hillman took the ball five times from center for a reverse pass to another back. Kane netted 163 yards in rushing, you will note by the statistics, and of that forward motion Big William collected 156 yards for an average of 4.8 a try. And in case we forgot to mention it, he plays safety man and does all of the punt returning. Quite a man!

Naturally, Hillman was the stand-out from the spectator point of view, but to those who know the physical structures of the Dragon grid, the courage of our boys was the highlight. It takes no little fortitude for anyone to get in front of 100 pounds of ten-second man, moving with a beautiful high-knee action, but even though they were mites beside him, the Dragons showed no hesitation in clinching with Hillman when they could get close to him. Just how much the locals were handicapped by the loss of four regulars is a moot question, but there is no doubt of the courage of the replacements. To Jim Harding and George Niederer, who were in the starting line, and the boys who came in to relieve them must go a lion's share of the credit for stopping Hillman as often as he was halted. But we have another pat on the back for a couple of lads who were men enough to throw away certain glory for the sake of honesty.

And as for yesterday's game—well, you couldn't ask for anything sweeter. For the doubters who waited until next Sunday when they will have had reports on the first game we have nothing but sympathy. It was a real ball game; the new Jackets demonstrated that they are even better than last year's clubs. McKeehan, Martinez, Rog & Co. make up a fast, smart backfield and have plenty of razzle dazzle at their finger tips. That the fans liked the new style of more open play was attested by the constant yelling and applause. Newcomers Rossman and Parseletti put their shoulders into the gaps in the line, and we'll take that forward wall against any that has ever represented this city. Even the weather man was obliging. The boys, by the way, are grateful to the Marconi Club for providing dressing rooms for the Jackets as well as the visiting firemen. Next week, Creighton.

YEARS AGO IN SPORTS

September 23, 1920—Alvin Dahlin, former Sheffield pitcher, who was taken by the Chicago White Sox in the middle of the season and farmed to Nashville in the Southern Association, created such a favorable impression in that circuit that he has been recalled by the American League. Southern League sports writers hailed his latest 4-0 win and prophesied that he was slated for the big time. He has a great overhead delivery and is expected to help the Sox in their drive for the pennant.

September 23, 1930—John J. McGraw, famed manager of the New York Giants, paid Warren county a flying visit today, but did not stop in this city. He visited his cousin, Mrs. Ida Cleveland, at Sinclairville, on Sunday and Monday, and left there for Tidoute and Oil City, but the nature of his mission was not learned.

Colorado-Texas at Austin. These will be the first games for each team, except for Boston College, which walloped Centre, 40-0 last Saturday.

Not far behind in the rankings are Washington State-Southern California, Iowa State-Denver (Friday) and a trio of conference games in the south. Duke, Southern Conference champion, opens against V. M. I., 33-0 winner over Roanoke last week. North Carolina, usually the Blue Devils' leading rival, clashes with Wake Forest. Both won last Saturday's games, 56-6 over Appalachian and 79-0 over William Jewell, respectively. North Carolina State, which upset William and Mary, 16-0, Friday in the first Southern Conference tilt, meets Davidson, 19-7 winner over Rollins.

In the Southeastern Conference, Louisiana State (39-7 against Louisiana Tech) plays Mississippi (37-0 against Union U.), and Florida meets Mississippi State. The East can't offer much more than warm-ups unless it's Navy vs. William and Mary.

Hemsley Injured As Tigers Defeat Indians

Catcher Rollie Hemsley of the Cleveland Indians was injured on this play as he dived for the plate to cut off Pinky Higgins as the Detroit third baseman tried to stretch a triple into a home run in fourth inning. Umpire Bill Summers watches play. The game, second of an important three-game series, went to Detroit, 5-0.

"Big Bill" Is Whole Show As Wolves Top Warren High Eleven

Kane High School's one-man gang, Big Bill Hillman, who does everything for the Wolves but carry the water, proved just a trifle too much for Warren's fighting Dragons Saturday afternoon on the hilltop, the Red and Blue chalking up its first win since 1934 over the locals, 6 to 0.

Carrying the ball nearly every time Kane made an offensive thrust, doing all of the kicking and tossing what few passes were used, Hillman was the whole show and climaxed his great display of inspired football by jaunting 27 yards around right end early in the third quarter for the only score of the game.

With four regular starters out of action because of violation of the training rules, the Dragons were considerably the underdogs, but throughout the first half they pushed Kane's big eleven all over the field and twice were inside the ten-yard line. Once they were held for downs by a suddenly stiffened Kane defense and on the other occasion, Floyd Landers fumbled on the five-yard line, Kane recovering.

The entire first half was played in a downpour which made a quagmire of the field and made holding the ball a feat. A dozen fumbles were registered during the encounter, with the Wolves dropping on a fair share of theirs and the Dragons, too, at critical times.

After Hillman had carried the ball from his own 32 to the Warren 42, without help, immediately after the first kickoff, "Sting" Brown fell on Vito's fumble of a reverse play on the Warren 48, and the Dragons took possession. After failing to gain, Hillman booted to Hillman on the Kane 25, and when the Wolves were penalized 15 yards for clipping, ball went back to the 12. Hillman at once ran around left end to the 27 to get out of danger, but there the Warren line held, and Bill booted out of bounds on the Warren 40.

Then, the Dragons cut loose. Zahranski, who replaced "Spinner" Johnson at fullback, stepped 18 yards around right end to the Kane 42. Tamburine picked up four at center and Landers skirted the left flank for a first down on the 28. Tamburine's pass to Landers was good for 16 yards and a first down on the 12, but here the Wolf line held for downs, and Kane took the ball on its own nine-yard line.

After Hillman picked up two yards on three plays, he booted to the Warren 44 and again the Dragons took possession.

For Warren, the work of the driving line, especially that of Wait Fredericks, Marasco, Rydholm, Niederer, Huffman and Brown, was again a feature, while Tamburine, Landers, Zahranski and Brown looked good on the offense. With the Patchen twins out of the line, Fredericks moved to guard and Jim Harding took over the pivot, doing a very nice job with a slippery ball. Sperry and Wolfe flashed brilliantly, particularly on the defense, on a number of occasions.

The revamped Warren lineup will get down to work this week to the problem of stopping "Red" Matkovich and Titusville. After attending a one-man show at Kane Matkovich should hold no terror for the Dragons, who halted him last year at Carter Field.

TIGERS TRIPPED CHICAGO BEARS BY INDIANS AS CHASE PACKERS; YANKS MOVE UP GIANTS HUMBLING

BY BILL WHITE

Associated Press Sports Writer
 Like the old-time movie serials that used to end each just after the heroine had fallen into the crocodile pond, the American League pennant race stops abruptly today—just when it almost had the war news shoved off the front page.

After almost everybody had given up on the Yankees ever being able to make it five pennants in a row, and then had decided the hard-hitting Detroit Tigers were too tough, Cleveland yesterday smashed out a 10-5 win in the third game of their series at Detroit and the Yankees beat Boston, 6-3, to make the race a three-way scramble again. And now, with everybody on edge, they all take the day off!

Resuming play Tuesday, the Tigers have a two-game series with the always troublesome Chicago White Sox, and the Indians meet the Browns in a pair. All of which means the pennant chase probably will not be decided until that three-game series starting Friday between the Tigers and the Indians at Cleveland.

After losing the first two games of the "crocodile" series, the Indian victory yesterday—Bobby Feller's 27th of the year—left the pendant picture looking like this:

	W.	L.	Pct.	games to lead
Detroit	87	62	.584	1
Cleveland	86	63	.577	1
New York	82	64	.562	3 1/2

The Yanks, refusing to admit they're licked, kept within mathematical shouting distance of the leaders by trouncing Boston.

Sid Hudson and Ken Chase turned in two fine pitching performances to hand the Washington Senators a pair of victories over the Athletics, 5-4 and 5-2, and old Ted Lyons pitched the White Sox to a 10-0 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—(P)—This is really a blue Monday in proud little Green Bay and it hasn't anything to do with wash-day.

The adoring supporters of the mighty Packers saw the national pro football champions humiliated Sunday by the pulverizing Chicago Bears, 41 to 10, in a brilliantly-coordinated air and land attack.

The champions were joined in the defeat column by the New York Giants, eastern division titlists, who bowed to the Washington Redskins, 21 to 7, before 34,712 in Washington.

Dutch Clark's highly-rated Cleveland Rams opened their campaign with an impressive 21 to 13 victory over Philadelphia. Johnny Drake scored all of Cleveland's touchdowns in the first two periods. Don Looney, Eagle end, contributed both opposing scores on passes from Davey O'Brien and Foster Watkins.

The Pittsburgh Steelers, after tying their first two games, hit the victory column with a 10-7 decision over the Detroit Lions. The Steelers trailed 3-7 in the fourth period when Louis Tomasetti scored from the three-yard line for the winning touchdown, capping a long drive.

Brooklyn and the Chicago Cardinals were idle.

Turner pitched a two hitter to give the champion Cincinnati Reds a 2-1 victory over the Pirates (the 39th the Reds have won this season by one run) in the first game, but Johnny Vander Meer's wildness cost them the second game, 8-1.

The Brooklyn Dodgers scored a twin win over the Phillies 10-2, and 5-2.

The Boston Bees and the New York Giants split their double-header, the Beantowners nipping Carl Hubbell, 4-3, but bowing 7-3 in the afterpiece.

The St. Louis Cards blasted the Chicago Cubs, 8-1 and 2-1, knocking Dizzy Dean dizzy in the first game.

New York, Sept. 23.—(P)—Week's wash: George Raft, the movie star (who owns a slice of lightweight George Latka), has offered Lew Jenkins $25,000 to defend his title against Latka.
